U. S. TROOPS LAND IN ITALY

Large-Sized Battle With Germans Now Looms In Italy

Six More Jap Merchant Ships Sunk By Subs

U. S. Submarines Also Damage Four Other Jap Supply Ships

SINKINGS OCCUR IN FAR EAST WATERS

By JACK VINCENT
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The navy announced today that U. S. submarines in far eastern waters have sunk six more Japanese merchant ships in a new series of blows against faltering enemy supply lines in the Pacific theater of war.

At the same time, the navy disclosed that the same submarines had damaged four other enemy vessels, bringing the total number of Jap ships sunk by U. S. subs to 223 and the number damaged to 67.

In addition, since Pearl Harbor, about 29 other Jap vessels have been listed as "probably sunk" by American undersea raiders.

Jap Tonnage Decreasing

Disclosure of the new sinkings, not previously announced, followed by less than a week the statement by Secretary of Navy Knox that more than one-third of all Japanese merchant tonnage has been torpedoed to the bottom of the sea by fleets of the Allied nations, with U. S. submarines accounting for 77 per cent of the toll.

According to Knox, the enemy in the Far East had about 6,368,891 tons of merchant shipping when war broke out, and since that time had built or seized about 1,250,000 tons more. The Allies have sunk more than one-third of the total or more than 2,509,000 tons.

Two Large Freighters Sunk

Tonnages of the latest ships reported sunk and damaged were not given by the Navy but it was believed that they would total more than 80,000 tons since the vessels sunk included two large freighters,

Surrender Of Italy Will Hasten Defeat Of Nazis By Year

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. — Informed observers in Washington expressed the belief today that Italy's unconditional surrender removed one year from the Allied timetable for defeat of Germany.

With U. S.-British-Canadian troops landing in the heart of Italy, it is believed that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander, plans soon to turn the Italian mainland into an Anglo-American fortress for direct frontal assaults on Germany and her satellites.

See Earlier Victory

Italy's belated capitulation, it is now felt, will bring victory to the United Nations over Hitler before the fall of 1944.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Churchill is remaining at the White House for a continuation of his conferences on peace and war with President Roosevelt. These discussions are now going into the second month, and the British leader's presence is construed as an indication of further momentous events to come.

Radio broadcasts from United Nations, Axis and neutral stations across the Atlantic told of Anglo-American troop landings in various parts of Italy. It was apparent that the Allies were seeking to trap all German troops in the southern half

Trial Nearing For Mussolini

Former Dictator Of Italy May Already Be Held By Allies

COWARDLY ATTACKS TO BRING PENALTY

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 — The man who stabbed France in the back today sees the day approaching when he must face trial for his cowardly act.

He may already be in the custody of Allied invasion forces.

The whereabout of Benito Mussolini has been the number one mystery of the war since July 25, when he was deposed as the chief of the Italian government after 18 years of boast and bombast.

The terms of Eisenhower's armistice with Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Mussolini's successor, were agreed upon on Sept. 3, it has been announced, and it is considered probable that the disposition of Mussolini was one of the questions settled at that time.

If Mussolini was in the hands of the Italian government, as persistent reports have indicated, then it is possible that the Italian gov-

Ground Troops Prepare For Knockout Of Trapped Japanese

AERIAL ATTACKS AIDING IN DRIVE

By FRANK ROBERTSON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 9.—Allied ground troops today pressed closer to Lae and Salamaua, twin Japanese bases in northwest New Guinea, after warplanes blasted enemy supply dumps and outposts near Lae.

While ground forces maneuvered in preparation for the knockout blow at Lae, heavy bombers dumped 96 tons of bombs on enemy installations and supply dumps. Attack planes strafed the Markham valley road and Jap outposts, clearing the way for further advances by American paratroopers, now 20 miles west of the Jap base.

Only Minor Opposition

So far, the Americans driving on Lae from the west and Australians approaching the base from the east have encountered only minor Jap patrols which were quickly overwhelmed.

Ground forces maintained their pressure on Salamaua 20 miles south of Lae. Sharp fighting was reported in the coastal sector and

Italian Prisoners Hail Surrender

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 9.—Italy's surrender was received with elation by the hundreds of Italians soldiers interned at the White Sulphur Springs prisoner of war camp, but they fear Germany's next step, Col. Frank A. Hunter reported.

Colonel Hunter, commander of the camp located at this former resort village, said the men, some veterans of the Ethiopian and North African campaigns, were "very happy over the fact that the war is over for them and their people."

"Many of them," he added, "are married men with children in Italy. Their fear now is that the Germans may retaliate against their families by laying waste to their country and homes, and they are fearful that Italy will become a battleground."

Russian Troops Plunge Forward Beyond Stalino

Report Defeated Enemy Now Driven 40 Miles Back From Stalino

RED TROOPS IN WIDE ADVANCE

By NATALIA RENE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Sept. 9—Cheered by Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin's order of the day hailing liberation of Stalino and the entire Donetz Basin from German control, the Red army plunged forward for new gains today on all fronts from the Smolensk area to the Sea of Azov.

While Russian spearheads pushed the defeated enemy back more than 40 miles beyond Stalino, a Soviet communique announced gains of six to nine miles in the Donets area, six to seven and one-half miles in the Bakmach sector to the north and six miles on the front south of Bryansk, and told how Stalino fell to the victorious Russians.

Enemy Routed

Violent battles were being fought on the approaches to Stalino yesterday morning when the Soviets "carried out a skillful maneuver, pushed their way forward impetuously north and south of Stalino and broke into the city, routing the enemy in bitter street fighting," the communique said.

Capture of Stalino was accompanied by Russian seizure of the important railroad junctions of Krasno-Armeiskoe 30 miles to the northwest, and Yasinovataya, 14 miles northeast of Stalino, and the district centers of Avdeevka and Selidovka, respectively 10 miles north and 20 miles northwest of Stalino, as well as 150 other towns and villages.

25 German Planes Downed

Twenty-five German planes were shot down in combat and 40 others destroyed on the ground as supporting Russian warplanes smashed at Nazi airfields in the Donets area during the last 24 hours.

Vast quantities of German manpower and equipment were destroyed in the Bakmach area as the Russians overran 60 more populated places, including the Borzna, district center of Chernigov Province. In one battle 1,000 Germans were killed and a large quantity

Huge Daylight Air Raids Being Made On Europe

Great Formations Of U. S. Aircraft Pass Over Straits Of Dover

NO LETUP IN AIR ATTACKS ON EUROPE

By WILLIAM WADE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Sept. 9 — A cross-Channel Allied aerial offensive which developed rapidly into one of the heaviest daylight bomber and fighter attacks of the war got under way shortly after dawn today.

Heavy United States aircraft, escorted by Thunderbolts, attacked targets in France, Eighth Air Force headquarters announced.

Great Formations

Great formations of bombers passed back and forth across the Straits of Dover to batter objectives on the Western Continent.

Sometimes the bombers were escorted by armadas of fighters while on other sorties the bombers flying at low altitude went out unescorted.

The heavy bombing of targets in France was audible in England and at frequent intervals the concussion of the explosions rocked houses on the English side of the Channel.

The assault appeared concentrated on the Boulogne and Calais areas. The terrific cross-Channel activity undoubtedly was designed to add to German invasion jitters in the wake of Italy's removal from the war.

Amphibious Exercise

Significantly, too, an official announcement was made of a suc-

BACK THE ATTACK!

The Third War Loan is your loan.

The securities on sale fit your purse. Check the one which is applicable to you and buy it to the point of personal temporary sacrifice. Always keep in mind your sacrifice is only temporary because you do not give your money away when you "buy" War Bonds; you lend your money at interest. Your money is not even frozen. In the event of an emergency—and the record shows that Americans are not redeeming their Bonds except in the event of true emergencies—your Bonds are redeemable.

The United States Government has never in its history repudiated a Government Bond. As further evidence of the strength of this country to guarantee repayment of your money, United States potential wealth amounts to $89,000 per capita. Even with the heavy current war expenses, our national debt is only $1100 per capita.

Only a country like ours could make such a deal with its citizens: repay you with interest for a loan of your money to protect you and your family against enemies which would murder, rob, or enslave you.

The number one "buy" for you is the familiar Series E War Bond. Twenty-seven million American workers are buying Series E Bonds at the rate of $420,000,000 a month. Your Third War Loan duty is to buy at least one extra Series E Bond above your regular buying. Buy more if you can.

Keep these facts in mind about the Series E Bonds: They come in $25, $50, $100, $500 and $1,000 denominations. They sell for 75 per cent of their maturity value. They pay you $4 for every $3 invested if held until maturity, which is 10 years from issuing date. You may redeem them at any time 60 days after issue without notice at stated redemption values. Every Bond carries this redemption table.

Italy Likely To Be Battleground For Major Clash

Allied Forces And Germans May Meet In One Of Decisive Battles

POWERFUL ALLIED FORCES ARE LANDED

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—A tense atmosphere of excitement gripped Washington today as the curtain rose in Italy on what is expected to be one of the great decisive battles of this war.

With American and British troops swarming into the heart of the Italian mainland, the soil of a surrendered Italy is believed about to become the battleground of the first major clash on the continent of Europe between the Anglo-American armies and those of Nazi Germany.

Reach Hitler's Fortress

As powerful American and British forces breached Hitler's European fortress at such historical points as Naples, Genoa and the gateway to Rome, one of the greatest Allied military campaigns of the war was considered to be underway to clear the Germans out of Italy and pave the way for an invasion of the Balkans.

Italy surrendered because of the overwhelming might of the Allied forces. That might came from men and material made possible by previous war bond drives. Now the third campaign is on to drop Germany into the limbo of defeated belligerents.

HEADQUARTERS OF GERMAN STAFF IN ITALY IS LEVELLED

By GRAHAM HOVEY
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 9—German staff headquarters for Italy, located in Frascati, some 25 miles southeast of Rome, were bombed to ruin by American Flying Fortresses in a devastating assault in which 28 Axis fighters were shot down, Allied spokesmen revealed today.

The attack, carried out yesterday just six hours before Italy's surrender was announced, set the entire town afire and sent huge columns of billowing smoke curling up several thousand feet into the air. Returning bombardiers labeled the results of the raid "the best we've ever seen."

The Forts hit the target in three waves, seven minutes apart, and unloaded hundreds of tons of explosive and fire bombs on the city, in which practically every building was being used by the Germans. Large villas, known to be used by high-ranking Nazi staff officers, went up in flame and utter desolation marked the path cut by the exploding bombs.

New Allied Landings Are Made At Naples And Other Coast Points

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 9.—Surrendered Italy was transformed into a giant battleground today when American and British troops landed successfully at Naples and other forces opened a new bridgehead at San Eufemia in the north of the Calabrian peninsula.

(Editor's Note: Axis broadcasts meanwhile reported unconfirmed Allied landings at various points "in the heart of Italy" and spoke of heavy British naval concentrations off Genoa. Landings on Sardinia also were reported by Berlin. A DNB broadcast claimed the landing in the Naples area had been "localized" and added: "The British and Americans suffered unusually high casualties. Fighting still is in progress.)

A few hours after Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower announced that the United States Fifth Army and British forces under Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark had swept ashore at Naples, a naval communique disclosed the new landing at San Eufemia.

Three bridegheads thus have been established for the eventual drive against Rome.

The Allies are now at Naples and San Eufemia and pushing steadily through the southwestern tip of Calabria.

May Trap Germans

With the Allies in Naples, German troops in southern Italy are faced with entrapment unless they speed up their withdrawal. The landing on the Gulf of San Eufemia represented a "leapfrog" move by the British Eighth Army. This amphibious operation overcame the handicap of enemy demolitions.

German opposition at San Eufemia, featured by coastal shelling, was not unexpected.

The landing, which centered about Vibo Valentia, was carried out by infantry and commandos.

In the past, the enemy has been able to hold open escape corridors and the same tactics will be tried again. But the Allies are bringing powerful forces to bear everywhere

Bitter clashes between Italian troops and Germans already were reported in isolated areas. The determination of the Nazis to hang on as long as possible was indicated in

Good Progress Says Stimson

War Secretary Says U. S. Invasion Of Italian Mainland Is Satisfactory

HARD FIGHTING AHEAD, HE WARNS

By EARLE MARCKRES
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Secretary of War Stimson today announced that Allied troops, including the units of the American Fifth Army, are making satisfactory progress in their invasion of the Italian mainland in the neighborhood of Naples.

Stimson told a news conference that the invasion forces, all of which are under the command of American Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark, are in contact with the German troops and have captured some of them.

15 To 20 Nazi Devisions

Stimson estimated that there are 15 to 20 German divisions in Italy today. He pointed out that this force is larger than the German strength which the American and British forces encountered in Tunisia and Sicily. He also said that the Germans can increase their troops in Italy if they wish to do so.

Germans Seize Italian Hostages

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 9.—A veritable state of war exists between Italians and Germans in northern Italy, a Berne dispatch to the Stockholm newspaper Tidningen said today.

The dispatch, reported by the Exchange Telegraph company, said that the Germans had assumed all power in Milan and proclaimed martial law there.

German forces in northern Italy already have taken 4,000 hostages, it was added.

Arthur Mometer

There's a quizzical look on the candidate's face and a fear in his heart I suppose, for what he will do when the ballots go down, there isn't a person who knows. So the candidate hopes as the days swiftly pass and he hands out cigars by the peck, and he hopes in his soul that he won't be the one who gets it right square in the neck. For voters are funny and always will be, and the candidates are in a fix, just trying to figure what Tuesday will do, the weather is cool, sixty-six.

Official Berlin Reported In Rage

Surrender Of Italy Causes Much Woe To Hitler Gang In Berlin

By STEN HEDMAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 9.—Official Berlin was reported to be in a rage today over what it called the deceit of Italian Premier Pietro Badoglio and King Victor Emmanuel.

Advices reaching Stockholm said that the chief of the Italian general staff late Wednesday gave his word of honor to the German charge d'affaires in Rome that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's announcement of Italy's surrender was only a bluff to cause confusion during Allied landings on the Italian coast.

Berlin termed this the highest degree of deceit and Nazi authorities sneeringly cited King Victor's proclamation of the fall of Fascism.

Italy is now considered as an occupied nation by the Germans, the Berlin correspondent of the newspaper Tidningen said. In one quarter it was suggested that Badoglio perhaps under compulsion gave the German military staffs time to take all measures necessary before the capitulation was announced.

Some quarters in Berlin also stated they were still counting on Italian resistance against the Allies and declared Fascism is not dead. Fascism, they said, will be re-established by the Italians in German hands.

GOOD PROGRESS SAYS STIMSON

Referring to the unconditional surrender of Italy, Stimson said the enemy "has been dealt a heavy blow but there is still likely to be hard fighting in Italy."

The secretary said that the current invasion of the Italian mainland stems from the successful conclusion of the military operations in North Africa.

He took pains to emphasize that the surrender of Italy and the present move to chase the Germans out of that country does not mean an early end to the war.

TRIAL NEARING FOR MUSSOLINI

ernment turned him over to Eisenhower as the world's number one prisoner of war.

To Face Punishment

That Mussolini will be "brought to book" for his guilt in leading the Italian people into war, is taken for granted in all the Allied—and Axis—capitals of the world, where President Roosevelt's stern words on punishment for the Axis war crimes are well remembered.

Both the United States and Great Britain are firmly committed on meting out just punishment for all Axis leaders and their henchmen, and a special commission has been working to compile the record of enemy criminals and their crimes for the inevitable day of reckoning.

There was a large question in Washington officialdom whether Mussolini would be brought to trial immediately, or whether his conviction would await the end of the war, when all the Axis leaders remaining alive will be forced to face the consequence of their crimes.

On this question, the Allied nations' treatment of Rudolph Hess is pointed to as an example of the policy to be pursued.

Hess, who fled Germany prior to America's entrance into the war, has been held incommunicado in some unrevealed prison under British supervision since that time, despite the reported demands of Russia that he be tried now as an example to the other enemy leaders.

one large cargo ship, one medium tanker, one small freighter, and one medium cargo vessel.

The ship's reported damaged in the latest thrust at Jap supply lines were one large cargo ship, two small cargo ships, and one medium freighter.

The new sinkings came at a time when combined American and Australian forces were launching new offensives in the South Pacific, Knox, in announcing the previous tonnage destroyed, had emphasized that the sinkings made it difficult for the Japs to maintain supply lines to their far-flung advance bases in the Pacific.

cessful full-scale Allied amphibious exercise recently carried out in the English Channel area.

Details of this operation were not disclosed immediately, the official statement saying merely that the exercise "has been most successful and valuable lessons have been learned by service and civil authorities concerned."

The cross-Channel arial blows carried the shattering aerial offensive against Western Europe into the eighth successive day.

The daylight raids followed a night attack by British Royal Air Force bombers on enemy objectives on the continent.

The squadrons which went out after dawn crossed the southwest English coast and radiated toward many different points

Observers said that the force appeared to be one of the strongest ever to go out from England and even after the squadrons split up to strike at separate targets each formation appeared to be in big force.

The daylight activity followed extensive night sorties in which Allied bombers, scarcely without a break, kept up a two-day service over the Straits of Dover.

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

FOLKESTONE, Eng., Sept. 9 — Allied aircraft based in England today carried out what probably will prove the greatest aerial assault ever made against the Nazi-held French coast.

This correspondent watched the shattering assault from an official grandstand seat atop a 500-foot chalk cliff.

I gathered with 40 other American and British Empire war correspondents in a sound-proof roof of the air ministry in London last night where we were told important operations would occur in a few hours.

A procession of 12 cars was driven to the lonely chalk cliff on the coast where since dawn we have been watching a majestic procession of every type of Allied fighter crossing and recrossing the Channel. All observers wore steel helmets and were provided with field glasses.

ITALY LIKELY TO BE BATTLEGROUND FOR MAJOR CLASH

to the grim reality of the new event. Official Washington was grave in the face of what it is feared may involve the heaviest casualties yet suffered by American fighting men in the European theater of war.

Word was eagerly awaited from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as to the progress of his Allied armies in the opening phase of their invasion of the west coast of Italy.

Italy May Join

A move to bring Italy into the war on the side of the United Nations is believed to be a deliberate part of the campaign. With the Italian armed forces under orders from the government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio not to oppose the Allied landing, it is hoped in Washington that the people of Italy will join with the American and British troops in helping to drive the Germans out of their country.

An effort to gain the support of the Italian people in this move was seen behind Gen. Eisenhower's statement that, backed by the military might of the Allies, they can now take vengeance on the Germans.

The move to swing Italy into the war on the Allied side also was seen evidenced by the appeal flashed to the Italian navy to proceed to Allied ports, and the broadcast warning to Italian forces in the Dodecanese islands and the Balkans that they must now take orders from the Allied high command in the Mediterranean.

The Italian people are going to be encouraged to redeem themselves from the evil of participating in the Axis war by helping to drive the Germans out of Italy. An authoritative Washington source said the extent to which the Italians now use their armaments to regain their freedom from the Germans will have an important bearing on the leniency of the final peace terms to be imposed on Italy.

Nazi Troops in Rome

The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter reported that German troops still were in Rome last night and that Nazi motor cars and motorcycles were seen patrolling the streets of the capital yesterday when announcement of the surrender was made.

Another Stockholm report said that the Italian fleet had sailed from the Spezia naval base to Sicily in compliance with an order from Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham directing Italian warships to make their way to Allied ports.

The Germans attempted to prevent the war vessels and merchant ships from going over to the Allies by appealing to the crews to stay put and await orders from what it called the "legitimate national fascist government."

A Nazi broadcast earlier claimed that a new national fascist government had been established in the name of former Premier Benito Mussolini."

Plan To Remove Rails On Bridge

Flooring in the South Mill street bridge which spans the Neshannock creek has been removed and traffic is yet being diverted through South Croton avenue and South Jefferson street. However, the sidewalks are open but screens have been placed to prevent accidents. The rails will be removed. A concrete floor will replace the wood floor.

near Bobdubi but the results of the clashes were not immediately disclosed.

The daily communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, announcing sporadic but ineffectual Jap air raids on allied positions, said the Nipponese were drawing heavily from other fronts in an effort to rehabilitate their shattered air forces in the New Guinea area and the Solomons. "As a result, the enemy is becoming weaker and vulnerable to air peneration in other theaters," the communique added.

Jap Planes Flee

Thirty-seven Nipponese bombers, accompanied by 30 fighters, jettisoned their bombs and the entire enemy formation fled when intercepted near Morobe by allied planes which shot down four of the fleeing Jap fighters without loss to themselves. Eight enemy bombers dropped bombs harmlessly in the sea and jungle after dark at Buna and a lone Jap plane dropped six bombs in the brush near Marilan.

Over Darwin, Australia, allied fighters intercepted and shot down five of 20 Jap fighter planes escorting an enemy reconnaissance aircraft and nine other Jap fighters in the formation were destroyed or damaged. Three allied planes failed to return from the combat.

Allied bombers continued to harass enemy shipping routes, destroying or seriously damaging 12 barges and scoring a direct hit on a small cargo ship off New Britain. Heavy bombers during the night strafed searchlight positions at Wewak, New Guinea, and bombed Finschhafen.

Torpedo planes and fighters which bombed and strafed Jap installations on Morgusai island in the Buin-Faisi area of the Solomons shot down five of 25 intercepting enemy fighter planes. Two allied aircraft were listed as missing.

SURRENDER OF ITALY WILL HASTEN DEFEAT OF NAZIS BY YEAR

of Italy. Apparently Gen. Eisenhower's forces expected the Italian army to aid them in this effort.

Rumors Are Rife

Whether the Allies are yet in a position to take advantage of the events in Italy to lash out from Britain in tremendous blows against the German European fortress from Norway to southern France was a matter of rumor, conjecture and great hope in Washington today.

But the turn of events in the Mediterranean gave forth prospects that a tidal wave of destruction would soon be unleashed against other German-occupied lands.

Two great pathways of invasion now lie open to the Allied forces in southern Eurcpe. These pathways are:

Invasion Pathways

1. The south coast of France from the Spanish border to Marseilles and up the Broad and Lush Rhone valley.

2. Albania and Greece and up the Varda Valley through Yugoslavia into Hungary, Austria and the heart of Germany itself.

The length of the Italian peninsula must first be occupied, order restored, disrupted communications repaired, and the Germans driven either from Italy or into the tight wedge of northern Italy above the Po.

Italian airfields must be quickly replaced and converted into use for a shortened direct air route over the Italian and Bavarian Alps to strike at Germany's hitherto untouched second industrial empire in eastern Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

The main pathway of the Anglo-American armies, and the revitalized French army of Gen. Henri Giraud, is expected to be through southern France.

of ammunition seized. In another the Soviets outflanked and exterminated a battalion of Nazis and captured all its armament.

Russian units operating in densely wooded areas south of Bryansk infilterated toward the flanks and rear of the enemy and inflicted heavy blows on the Germans. More than 1,200 German officers and men were killed in these operations.

(One spearhead of the red army advancing on the northern Ukraine front was reported by the British radio to have reached a point within 80 miles of the German base at Kiev. The broadcast, heard by NBC monitors, added that in the Donets basin Soviet forces have driven the Germans 40 miles beyond Stalino.)

Manager C. C. Coulthard, Cascade Park, today reported throngs patronized the park despite the gas ban during the summer. Twenty-five thousand bathed in the pool, 20,000 rode the merry-go-round and 25,000 enjoyed the crash of miniature autos at the Dodge 'em. He said that the grove where cooking utilities are free attracted an average of 500 persons daily.

BOND WORKERS START DRIVE IN LAWRENCE CO.

der way. Perhaps there was no knock upon your door. There will be and your answer should be Yes.

The organization in Lawrence county is a good one and will get results. It will get better results if you are prepared for the solicitor and are ready to sign for bonds.

Lawrence county has to raise $6,307,000 in bond money for this campaign. That sounds like a lot of money but it isn't nearly as precious as the 6500 or more lads from this county who are in the ranks using the materials that your money buys.

No check was possible upon sales today nor will there be for some days. Roger Jewett, executive vice president of the Greater New Castle Association, is chin deep in forms and applications and paper of kinds connected with the work of the campaign. Mr. Jewett is deputy campaign chairman and has charge of the office management for the drive. That means 20 hours work per day until the drive is over.

Friday Formal

Friday night the formal opening of the campaign takes place with a military parade and a spectacle between halves at the football game in Taggart stadium. The Marine Detachment of New Castle today announced its intention of being in the parade, as did the American Red Cross. These are additions to those announced Wednesday.

There are two jobs to do in this campaign, one is selling the bonds, the other is buying. The workers are organized for the selling, the other half of the job, that of buying, is up to you and you and you.

THE
NASSAK DIAMOND

Like the Orloff, the Nassak Diamond originated in India and was a votive offering to the goddess Siva, in a temple near Bombay. When the English took over that part of India, this stone passed into the hands of the Marquis of Hastings, leader of the army. A few years later it was purchased by the Marquis of Westminster, and mounted in the hilt of his sword. Recently it was acquired by Manboussin, the celebrated Parisian jewelry firm where it has been on exhibition. The Nassak is a diamond of perfect brilliancy weighing 78 carats.

BACK THE ATTACK—BUY WAR BONDS

THE THIRD WAR LOAN is a swift, sure test of your common sense, your ability to take it, and a true measure of your own flesh and blood, the men you have sent off to do the fighting for you.

It combines all of these aspects because it comes at a time when American forces are doggedly seeking a decision on the battlefield, often at the cost of life itself.

Attack. Counter-attack. Attack. Another ridge. Another valley. Another town. All sense of time gone. You get weary. You smell death. But you keep going. That's invasion. That's the way a war correspondent tells the story of what your relatives, your neighbors, your friends are going through at this moment.

But what about you? Is it attack, counter-attack, attack for you on the home front? Are you fighting a battle to save every penny possible for War Bonds to back up your fighting men?

There's hardly a comparison between your greatest sacrifice on the spending front and the sacrifices in blood and sweat of one of your soldiers, sailors, flyers, marines or coast guardsmen.

Your Government comes to you and says:

"Lend me your money now when I need it to protect you against your enemies, and I'll pay you back with interest a little later when the men who would murder, rob and enslave you are destroyed."

It takes a country like ours to make such an offer. Where's your common sense if you don't run, not walk, to the nearest Bond Booth to lay down your money and exchange it for War Bonds?

Your Government is putting its objective before you in two ways. First in big round numbers like 15 billion dollars. Secondly, but more important, it puts the Third War Loan matter up to you in a purely personal way. It wants you to invest a minimum of an extra $100 in War Bonds—more if you can. If you are one of those Americans who have not yet bought a War Bond—or even a War Stamp—it asks you to get busy in a hurry. There's something awfully wrong with you if you won't put an extra rifle, or an extra clip of bullets into the hands of your men on the battlefield.

There's another thing to keep in mind as you face the test of the Third War Loan. You may grumble about the cost of living. That's not the thing really to worry about. The Nazis and the Japs have let you know that your chief worry is living itself if they can get their hands on you. If you want one graphic example, remember those American martyrs of Jimmy Doolittle's Tokyo raid.

The slogan, "Back the Attack—With War Bonds," is addressed to you. Rich man, poor man, worker, boss, man, woman or child—you all have something to lend to your country at a time like this. You would not be worthy of being an American if you did not have the fibre to trade bread for liberty.

Other Americans are crouching in assault boats at this moment. Waiting for INVASION!

It's assault time for you too.

Downfall Of Italy

(International News Service)

Italy, branded by Allied leaders as "The Jackel" nation because of former Premier Benito Mussolini's action in pounding on prostrate France, played only an unfortunate role in the war from beginning to end.

While Il Duce dreamed of expanding his empire and winning riches for his nation, he succeeded only in frittering away all Italy's principal possessions, bringing distress to his countrymen and disaster to his own regime.

Mussolini dragged Italy into the war June 10, 1940, in what President Roosevelt labeled a "stab in the back" at France. He stubbed his toe on Greece and was forced to plead with Adolf Hitler for aid in subduing the small, ill-prepared land. With typical swagger, he "requested" the "privilege" of bombing London during the battle of Britain, but put only a few planes into the sky—most of which never saw Italian soil again.

In Africa, his legions were routed in Britain's far drive across the sandy shores of Libya. Bolstered by the Germans—and Gen. Field Marshal Erwin Rommel—they later met with temporary success, but then were hurled all the way from El Alamein through Egypt, Libya, Tunisia and Sicily back to their mainland—their empire gone. As defeat stared Italy in the face, Il Duce was ousted and now, but a few weeks later, unconditional surrender to the Allies was chosen rather than continue the useless struggle.

Premier Mussolini announced his country's entry into the war in a bombastic outburst delivered from his favorite orating spot—the Palazzo Venezzia. There, in what became his most notorious balcony speech, the then ruler of all Italy assured his nation that the Mediterranean was slated to become "our lake" and ripped into the decadent democracies and "plutocracies" with characteristic outpourings of venom.

His first actions were to take advantage of France's downfall to the full extent his partner and master, Adolf Hitler, would permit him. Italian troops were sent to garrison Nice and Haute-Savoy and for several months this move constituted Il Duce's contribution to the Axis war effort.

June 22, 1941, saw the Germans move into Russia and Hitler, finding unexpected trouble in completely conquering and controlling vexsome Yugoslavia, requested Mussolini for troops to aid in that assignment. Mussolini sent Italian divisions into Yugoslavia, only to be pushed around by the defending forces to such an extent that Hitler's advance into Russia was effected to some extent.

When Crete fell to the Axis, it was wholly a German show, but Italy's "Jackal" label proved fitting once again when the Fascists were assigned the task of garrisoning the island after the British evacuated on May 29, 1941.

Meanwhile the British navy's thundering guns gave the lie to Mussolini's boast that the Mediterranean would become merely an Italian lake. Warships were lost to the Italians each time they stumbled into the path of the Royal navy and on Armistice Day, 1940, British torpedoed planes at Tranto, main naval base of the Fascists, nearly wiped out the warship forces anchored there.

A few months later, on March 28, 1941, the Italian navy suffered a new disaster at the battle of Matapan.

In Africa, meanwhile, Italy was suffering still further reverses sprinkled only with a slight taste

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

HELP CHILD OVERCOME FEAR OF DARK

"Dear Dr. Myers:—Our son, 13 years old, isn't afraid of the dark, goes anywhere and comes home alone, but for some reason is afraid after he gets in bed. He doesn't want the light turned off. He says that when he shuts his eyes he imagines something or somebody is in his room and he can't keep his eyes shut. He also imagines that any little noise is somebody moving around, or a shadow is some person.

"At first we thought he was only putting on, but now I feel sure he is in earnest about it. He has never been scared by us or anybody else to our knowledge. He has been left along very little, some this past year during the early part of the evening and that is about all. A self-addressed envelope is enclosed."

The Doctor's Reply

I answered this mother virtually as follows: I am glad you try to understand that lad. By all means, let him have his door ajar with the light outside it.

It may be that his fears have been aroused by some exciting radio programs he listens to. He may be very high-strung or "nervous." I am enclosing my special bulletins, "Fears," and "Nervous Habits in the Child."

I trust that this youth feels assured that all is well between his parents, and that he is loved by them as he feels he should be.

Let me urge you and his father to be very considerate of this boy as a person, never laughing at what he says or asks, nor letting others make fun of him. Try to induce him to share in the family conversation. Listen to him attentively when he talks, and try to enjoy his smallest efforts at humor. I trust your family has lots of good times together, with abundant smiles and laughter at meal times.

Avoid Crtical Talk

Be careful not to talk about his physical traits or his shortcomings before company. He may even be embarrassed if you talk about his virtues and achievements to other adults.

Do all you reasonably can to help this boy cultivate friends among those of his own age. Make his friends welcome at your home and prove a good host and hostess to them.

In case this youth is noticeably shy toward others of his age, or has difficulty in making and holding friends, he might gain some help from reading my booklet, "Learning to Be Likable," which I trust may be found in your public library. I am also enclosing a book list on "Personality and Mental Health," also available to any one else who will write me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

ENCOURAGE YOUR CHILD TO HAVE DIGNITY

"I am almost 16 years old and feel deserving of some consideration and respect from my parents. I am sure my complaint is similar to that of a great many other girls of my age, so please deal with it in your column.

When I try to act dignified and poised, my mother laughs at me and reminds me that I am only 15 and not 16. Now, it seems to me that a girl in her 16th year should begin to act like an adult, rather than a baby. Recently a boy called on me to spend the evening at my house with another boy and girl. Mother did her usual trick, telling him I was only a baby. This embarrasses me greatly as I am not pretending to be older, only trying to act my age." —Ann.

Answer: This letter is pathetic. Here is a child who wants to behave with dignity and her mother won't permit her to do so! This mother is doing her best to give her daughter an inferiority complex—to make her so self-conscious that she will probably never regain her poise. It is such a relief in this jitterbug age of flippancy when manners are considered "old-fashioned" to find a child who wants to have the dignity of an adult that I cannot understand this mother's attitude.

Every adolescent child loathes being reminded of her adolescence. She does not want to be referred to as a child or a baby. And her wishes should be respected. Keep trying, Ann, and maybe your mother will awaken one day.

Question: I have noticed that some officers salute women instead of removing their hats. Which is correct?—M. N.

Answer: According to the traditions of the regular army an officer does not remove his hat when speaking to a woman he meets on the street. He is trained to salute. The reserve officers, after years of removing their hats, are likely to continue to do so. They are not so sticklers for military etiquette.

Southern Tobacco Growers Ired.
On Warpath Against OPA
To Tighten Farm Labor Deferments

By HELEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The much-battered Office of Price Administration probably will be getting some pretty hard slaps from southern tobacco growers when Congress reconvenes.

Government price fixers recently ordered South Carolina growers to grade and tie their crops if they wanted to market them at prevailing prices.

Now tobacco grading is a tedious job, and tying the bundles with the final leaf requires considerable skill. And with the manpower situation what it is, the South Carolina growers faced a problem.

The way those close enough to the Georgia border solved it was to take their tobacco to Georgia markets, where the requirements did not prevail.

In addition to this incident, OPA rejected personal pleas by several senators and governors for a 4-cent increase in ceiling prices on some tobacco grades. The OPA feared it would boost the price of cigarettes. Tobacco men replied: "The war has boosted our costs—so what?"

Watch for an attempt by War Manpower Chief Paul McNutt to tighten up on farm labor deferments.

Sources close to McNutt say he may increase deferment standards for farmers on the ground that agriculture is now getting a disproportionate break.

Any move in this direction, however, undoubtedly will meet with strong resistance from the "farm bloc" in Congress, since farmers insist they are just getting by with the labor they now have and any reduction in the farm labor force would curtail food production.

Convictions for the violation of the draft act rose sharply after Pearl Harbor, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, recently informed President Roosevelt.

Convictions for failure to register, failure to report for induction, failure to return questionnaire, etc., totaled 2,847 for the first year of the war as compared with 627 for the entire peacetime year of draft operations.

The World and the Mud Puddles

VERY CONFUSING

More and more it is becoming apparent that the shortages of different varieties of food which so many communities are experiencing is not due nearly so much to the inability of the growers to produce it as it is to the bungling of the so-called economists who are so feverishly trying to install some half-baked system of planned economy.

No one is going to quarrel very much with government regulations when it is evident that they are necsary to the war effort. But there is little evidence that the war effort is given first consideration when we see such a cluttered tangle of red tape as that which surrounds the food problem in this country. If the war effort were of first importance to those who are so assiduously meddling in the price structure, distribution and other phases of food economy, then there would be a simple, easy-to-understand set of regulations. Instead, we have nine federal agencies trying, each in its own pecular way, to handle food supplies.

It is not necessary here to repeat the horrible examples of waste and inefficiency that have attended these efforts. The news columns daily tell the story. And the climax of these stories is spoilage and how whole communities have had to go without foods that have been produced in abundance, all because some Washington expert hasn't been able to make the obvious solution fit into his imported scheme of planned economy.

In time of war, particularly, when every hour of wasted effort is advantageous to the enemy, the meddlesome inefficiency of the planned economists is little less than criminal. It all goes back to the political efforts of the administration and its price structure. Ceilings were established here, omitted there, floors were put under some prices while others were allowed to drop unsupported and still others to shoot skyward. In each case, the appeasement of some large voting group was of first consideration. The result is chaos which is becoming worse.

What we need, and what must be applied, is an over-all system of price freezing, taking into consideration every factor involved in establishing the retail price of commodities. The administration of the food problem must be streamlined into one agency if we are to avoid the confusion that now results from the meddling of nine agencies. It is a simple remedy, but it is one that will require courage. Above all, it will require the abandonment of partisan politics and the attitude of the administration to follow only the course that might produce the greatest number of votes.

The "Liberals" Lament

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. THE NEWS, promulgated in various dispatches and columns, that our ebullient Vice-President, Mr. Henry Wallace, is in a great state of perturbation over the alleged departure of the President from "liberal lines" and is preparing to play the martyr role for the sake of the "cause", is but another expression of the charge referred to in this place last week that Mr. Roosevelt no longer "stands by his friends".

THE INTERESTING thing about that charge, it was pointed out, is that it is made by the President's friends, not by his enemies. Similarly, the allegation that he has turned to the "right" comes from his erstwhile intimates of the "left" who, while they regard the turning as temporary, nevertheless, grieve mightily. Certainly, the stout heart of Mr. Wallace is troubled and, though there has been no break, his feeling toward the President unquestionably has changed. This fact, attested by various reporters to whom he has unbosomed himself lately, enhances interest in the speech Mr. Wallace is scheduled to make on Saturday and which was eulogistically advertised on the radio last Sunday by the columnist whom Mr. Roosevelt denounced as a chronic liar. It is said that Mr. Wallace no longer regards Mr. Roosevelt as the "great liberal leader," but darkly suspects that for a number of reasons, some personal and some political, he has gone conservative.

MR. WALLACE grew fearful that the Roosevelt "liberalism" was becoming diluted some months ago. These fears were confirmed by the President's attitude in the great Wallace-Jones fued, which resulted in Mr. Jones holding on to almost all he had while Mr. Wallace's BEW was shot from under him; his dear friend, Mr. Milo Perkins, walked the plank and his own resignation from WPB followed. Subsequent events such as the ousting of Mr. Sumner Welles, the repeated humiliations visited upon the inept and unfortunate Elmer Davis and the recent indignant retirement from the Rockefeller agency of Mr. LeCron, one of Mr. Wallace's close friends, who left denouncing the State Department—all these things have served to churn the Washington "liberals" into a lather.

THEY ARE not certain but they are highly suspicious that their reserved leader, Franklin Roosevelt, has run out on them. They would be closer to the truth if they said he had gotten on to them. Actually, what these professional "liberals" think and feel is of no great consequence. Largely, they consist of youngish New Deal jobholders inflated by unaccustomed power and a handful of journalists who by being blatantly "liberal" give themselves an importance they other-

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Whatever you do, don't let this reduce your patriotism by one whit.

Don't let it make you sing the "Star Spangled Banner" one bit less ardently or stop your buying of War Bonds and diminish your support of the Red Cross.

But what do you think made the invasion forces in Sicily so mad that they couldn't wait to lick the enemy?

Martial music, no.
Fiery orations? No.
Love of country and home? No.
Dehydrated rations did the trick.

Three fellows who just returned, and who were right in the thick of the invasion said so, and they ought to know.

American soldiers like steaks and chops, plenty of green vegetables, apple pie and fried potatoes.

When they were told that while the invasion was on, they'd have to live on dehydrated food, they got so furious that they wanted to get the job done in a hurry.

"There was lots of dehydrated cabbage," said Chief Quartermaster Lawrence Porter of Eureka, California, "but frankly when you added water to it, it was just like eating paper."

We stay-at-home folks look upon war as something glorious. We think—or are made to believe—that every clerk or every mechanic who puts on a uniform and is hurled into battle, immediately becomes a knight in shining armor.

Rot. First of all, our fighting man remains a human being.

A steak looks just as good to him as to you and me. A decoration on his chest is nice indeed, but a good hunk of corned beef tastes ever so much better.

Americans fight because they know they've got a job to do, and Americans are used to doing their jobs well.

But as soon as the job is done, they want to get back to their own dinner tables, their own beds, their own folks, their own gardents.

So when you wave the flag or talk about your patriotism, remember this:

It isn't talk that will finish the war. The only way we people at home can help to get it over with is to work and pay, and go without things so that the boys can do their job, and we'll all have steak and gas and fun again!

NO LEND-LEASE FOR ARGENTINA

Nation Accused Of Aiding Axis To Detriment Of Allied Nations

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The Argentine government stood accused today of maintaining continued diplomatic relations with the Axis to the detriment of her sister Latin-American republics and the United Nations.

In a sharp, blunt letter, Secretary of State Cordell Hull refused the Argentine's request for lend-lease aid to maintain military "equilibrium" with her neighboring South American countries.

Hull, caustically rebuked the Argentine government for apparent effrontery, and pointed out that Argentina by maintaining her vaunted neutrality, has in no way contributed to the vital problem of hemispheric defense. He continued:

"Since Argentina, both by its words and its actions, has indicated clearly that the Argentine armed forces will not under present conditions be used in a manner designed to forward the cause of the security of the new world, and thereby the vital war interests of the United States, it would be impossible for the president of the United States to enter into an agreement to furnish arms and munitions to Argentina under the lend-lease act."

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

wise could not achieve. It is—or was—a satisfying pose and the way they become established as "liberals" is through constant insistence upon their own "liberalism" and denunciation of all dissenters from their views as reactionaries. They are not very numerous and, except when high in White House favor, not very influential.

BUT, THEY are adepts in the art of publicity and generally belligerent. Right now, like Mr. Wallace, they are disturbed about the President. They resent his support of Mr. Hull. They dislike to see the widening influence of Mr. Baruch, who recently did a job in the matter of stimulating aircraft production for which the whole country should be grateful. They do not like Admiral Land and Lewis Douglas. They hated "Big Bill" Jeffers. They think Jesse Jones is a villain, "Jimmie" Byrnes a trimmer and say that Harry Hopkins is a changed man and a bad influence on the "Chief" since he acquired a taste for caviar and champagne a new wife and his English friends.

WHAT ALL this means is that Mr. Roosevelt is not seeing as much of these fellows as he used to. The war has compelled the President to consult and consort intimately with a different breed of men—with straight-thinking, square-dealing military and naval chiefs; with genuinely patriotic and disinterested big business men; with experts and authorities in many lines; with the clear-headed, high-minded, philosophical, humorous, fighting Churchill; with heroic figures like General Chenault—and a host of others. It is not surprising that his little radical playmates of the early New Deal have suffered by comparison. It is not surprising that they seem puny and tiresome to him at times, and that their insistence upon keeping things "in our own hands" bores him a little. He has not exactly run out on them but, perhaps, for the time being, he has lost interest in them—and their dreamy ideas.

NATURALLY they are disgruntled. The conservatives, they say, have taken the President over. He will be renominated and they, like Mr. Wallace, will support him, because there is nothing else to do, no other place for them to go. But, as they see it, Mr. Wallace is the real "liberal" leader today, and they look to him to carry the torch. Mr. Wallace pretty well agrees about this. At any rate, he is reported as determined to raise aloft the "liberal" banner around which all "true liberals" are expected to rally. The rallying cry will be that "big business" is plotting to take over world control and must be resisted. It may be that he will thus compel his renomination with Mr. Roosevelt in 1944, which is not now planned by the Roosevelt strategists. And if the "liberals" howl "liberal, liberal" loud enough and long enough it may bring Mr. Roosevelt back into the fold. Even though it has lost its meaning, the word has an extraordinary fascination for him.

Lieut. Gen. Thomas C. Holcomb, Marine Corps commandant, wears three stars. His marines have done outstanding jobs in the Pacific war, Guadalcanal, for instance. By January 1, there will be about 400,000 Marines, and down to the last man they think Holcomb rates a full generalship.

Vice Admiral Russell R. Waesche, head of the Coast Guard, has three stars. His men have performed excellently both as off shore patrols and in manning invasion boats under heavy fire in the Pacific and European war theaters. Several months ago, a bill was introduced in Congress to give both men the full four-star rank, but it was sidetracked.

Maybe the measure can be revived in the next Congress. It will be if friends of Holcomb and Waesche can persuade the law-makers.

DOWNFALL OF ITALY ENDS IN SURRENDER

of some small measure of temporary triumph when German divisions carried the main weight of assault.

Then came the retreat. Across Libya and into Tunisia the Italians—and Germans—fled, past the Mareth line and out into the Cape Bon Peninsula. Disaster again. Next was the brief Sicilian campaign and, capping the climax, the invasion of the Italian mainland.

Italian prisoners spoke openly of their disgust with the war and the nation made no secret of its weariness. Today the common people apparently had their final say.

CANNING ACCIDENTS

Whenever the canning season comes along, there are a number of accidents.

A very common injury is a cut from a broken jar.

The jar is held in one hand and the lid screwed on tight with the other. An extra hard turn breaks the jar and a bad cut on the wrist is the result.

With rubber rings it is not necessary to screw the lid on so tight. A good firm seat will keep out molds.

When tightening the lid, a towel should be put over the jar. The towel should be kept between the hands and the jar. Then if the glass breaks, the hands will be protected from the sharp edges.

It's pretty hard to keep your fingers crossed while you tighten a lid.

SEE INSANITY DEFENSE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—It appeared today a defense of insanity may be made for Carman Marmarosa, East Liberty barber who allegedly confessed the bludgeon death of his wife, Helen.

Judge Ralph H. Smith yesterday granted a petition of Marmarosa's attorney calling for an examination by a pair of psychiatrists and the defendant's physical. Marmarosa is in jail awaiting a coroner's inquest into the crime.

So many medals have been awarded, they no longer mean anything except that fighting men without them have been overlooked.

Victory In Italy Hailed By Hoover

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Former President Herbert Hoover hailed the victory in Italy and declared that "great statesmanship now will hasten the surrender of others".

The former president's statement said:

"The Italian victory is a glorious turning point in the war. We can take great pride in the share our splendid forces, with the British, had in bringing it about.

"We have now quickly to show the Italian people that this is their redemption from oppression; that it is resurrection not the destruction of their national life."

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills

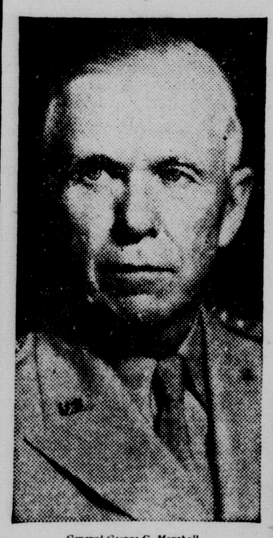
BETWEEN GENERAL MARSHALL AND SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MORGENTHAU



General George C. Marshall, Chief of Staff, U. S. Army

"Mr. Secretary, can we military leaders plan to fight this war in an orderly way—in the surest and most effective manner—or must we take extraordinary risks for fear the money will not hold out?"

Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury of the United States

"General, the American people will take care of that. They will not let our fighters suffer from lack of support until we achieve complete victory, no matter how long that may take, nor how much it may cost!"

Snake Dancing Not To Be Permitted

Young People Are Instructed To Go To Homes Following Games

"Mayor Charles B. Mayne and myself hope New Castle high has a successful football season. We also hope the fans and fanettes enjoy themselves at the games. However I wish to state that the city police have been given instructions to not permit 'snake dancing' or any other disorder following games."

So spoke Chief of Police W. G. McMullen today. He said that, following the games, persons not permitted out after 11 p. m. would be expected to journey straight to their homes because the police will continue to enforce the curfew law.

Schools Are Near Normal Schedule

Gradually the public school system was shaking down today into the normal routine which will mark it for the next nine months. Superintendent Frank L. The enrollment of the first day will be available in a day or so Mr. Burton stated. This enrollment will increase for the first month of school if the usual history of the school system is repeated.

ITALIAN SOLDIERS IN BELGRADE LAY DOWN THEIR ARMS

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The Nazi news agency DNB reported today that Italian troops in Belgrade, capital of Yugoslavia, "laid down their arms without incident."

HAND CAUGHT IN OPERATING PRESS

Miss Margaret Goodman, 25, of 133 North Shenango street, was admitted to the Jameson Memorial hospital this morning at 10:15 o'clock for treatment after her right hand became caught in a press while it was in operation at Miller, Pyle and Street, printers, where she is employed as a press feeder.

The third and fourth fingers were broken and Miss Goodman sustained bruised lacerations of all the fingers of her right hand.

But if only the good could criticize the bad, who would be free to rebuke evil?

BAN PUBLICATION

(International News Service)

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 9.—Publication of the newspaper Noticias Graficas was banned by Argentine authorities today.

The ban followed a printed criticism of the government yesterday for not breaking relations with the Axis. Small pro-Nazi groups were accused of trying to influence the government in the direction of totalitarianism.

DENY PRESIDENT TALKED WITH POPE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The White House today denied reports from London that President Roosevelt had conferred by trans-Atlantic telephone last Saturday with Pope Pius.

"I never heard of such a phone call," Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early said.

The report was considered very dubious as it is understood the president is not making any trans-Atlantic phone calls on any subjects of urgent importance at this time.

NEW ALLIED LANDINGS ARE MADE AT NAPLES AND OTHER POINTS

in an effort to shater the German stand and deprive the enemy of any initiative.

Gen. Eisenhower's Report

Gen. Eisenhower's latest communique confirming establishment of a bridgehead at Naples said:

"The operations of Allied forces which landed at about 4 a. m. in the area of Naples are proceeding satisfactorily. Our troops are in contact with German forces and prisoners have been taken.

"The landing were made under the protection and cover of the Royal Navy and the United States Navy. The disembarkation of the troops, with their guns, vehicles, stores and equipment is proceeding according to plan.

"All Allied forces on the Italian mainland are under command of Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander. Liuet. Gen. Mark W. Clark is in command of the troops engaged in the landing."

The San Eufemia thrust was disclosed in a naval communique which said:

Gunboats Aid

"On Sept. 7, gunboats of the Royal Navy continued to support the left flank of the army operating on the west coast of Calabria.

"In the early hours of yesterday, Sept. 8, after slight opposition, troops were successfully landed at Vibo Valentia in the Gulf of San Eufemia in landing craft of the Royal Navy supported by warships.

"Canadian and British troops of the Eighth Army in the toe of Italy have moved forward considerably. The lateral road from Locri on the east coast to Giogi on the west is now in our hands. Prisoners are being taken."

The San Eufemia bridgehead places Allied forces 60 miles north from the original landing points near Reggio Di Calabria.

The Naples landing represented the first invasion of Continental Europe by American troops in force.

Contact Germans

Battle-tired American veterans made immediate contact with spearheads of German forces whose continued presence in Italy has turned that nation into a field of bloody conflict despite the unconditional capitulation of Marshal Pietro Badoglio and his armies announced by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower yesterday.

Thus, as anticipated, Italy's surrender after 1,181 days of losing war which saw the Italian Empire dismantled, its leader crushed and its people sold out as slaves of the Nazis, merely opened another chapter of the continuing war against Germany.

Gen. Eisenhower's communique was sparse in details. But the Algiers radio reported that Allied troops are "racing" across the plain north of Naples after encountering what was described as the German "rear guard."

This expression naturally denoted a Nazi retreat in the first land battleground of Europe itself where American and German soldiers have met in combat since the historic days of St. Mihiel and Chateau Thierry in the last war.

Heavy Air-Naval Barrage

The landing was preceded by a gigantic naval and aerial barrage which raked the military installations of Naples Harbor.

When the emplacements manned by Nazi troops had been silenced, the Americans went ashore. The initial thrust was believed to have been made at the huge San Vincenzo Mole which extends far out into the Bay of Naples, and was quickly followed by other landings at Timber Quay, Reverello Quay, the Angiono Mole, the Vittorio Emmanuele II Basin and at Ovo Port, the gun-studded garrison which protects Naples much as Governor's Island frowns over the outer harbor of New York.

This history-making American push into the Nazi-dominated Continent of Europe was made in very great force. United States as well as British battleships, cruisers, destroyers and corvettes protected it. Even as troops, guns, vehicles, stores and equipment were poured into the Italian mainland, swarms of American and British planes roared into landing fields, carefully picking out airstrips that remained undamaged during the avalanche of Allied bombings which after three years and three months of warfare pushed Italy into surrender.

Germans Fight

Coincident with the American landings troops of the British Eighth Army came to grips with German forces in the Province of Calabria. Italian troops laid down their arms in accordance with the armistice terms. But the Germans showed every intention of fighting wherever a stand was possible. How long the vastly reduced Nazi forces in the south could hold out was problematical.

Speculative also was the ultimate strategy of the Naples landing. There was a possibility the Americans might drive due east across the Italian boot to the great base of Foggia and then to the Gulf of Manfredonia.

Declaration By Hungary Seen

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Stockholm reports said "an important declaration" by Hungary as a result of Italy's capitulation to the Allies was expected today as Premier Adm. Nicholas Horthy summoned a special meeting of his chiefs of staffs.

Horthy's action, immediately on learning of the surrender of Italy, was reported by the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet, according to Reuter's. The Swedish newspaper commented that the Italian capitulation "will bring very extensive consequences in Hungary and the Balkans."

TO SEEK BANNING OF COMMITMENTS MADE IN SECRET

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Declaring that the nation is not ready to empower any official to negotiate secret foreign agreements, Rep. Cole (R) N. Y., announced today that he will introduce a bill in Congress banning any such commitments made without authority of law.

Even the Atlantic charter with its assurance of the four freedoms for all the world, Cole said in explaining his measure, "might be distorted by some country into a positive agreement."

He described his bill as a "further re-emphasis" of the constitutional power given the Senate to confirm treaties and foreign commitments.

ACTION BY TWO WIVES

MERCER, Sept. 9.—John B. Ziccardi, alias John Baptist Mitchell, McConnell street, Grove City, is finding life anything but dull these days. Yesterday, his two "wives" filed papers in the prothonotary's office for permanent separation.

His first venture into matrimony took place November 22, 1926, when he married Frances McNeish Broadway, Farrell, using the name of Ziccardi. On May 4, he took unto himself another wife, Kathryn Mae Mitchell, without the strain and red tape of securing a divorce from the former spouse and without her consent and knowledge.

So, Mrs. Ziccardi has entered divorce proceedings and Mrs. Mitchell has filed a libel in annulment.

GALEAZZI EN ROUTE

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Enrico Galeazzi, papal representative now en route from the Vatican City to Washington, has left Lisbon by plane for England, the Italian news agency Stefani, said today in a dispatch which quoted the Popolo Di Roma.

The dispatch, as reported by the OWI, said Galeazzi will discuss with President Roosevelt "certain valuables which the Vatican wishes to deposit in a spot which is far away from the danger of war."

NAZI PRODUCTION SHAKEUP

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Adolf Hitler today decreed a drastic reorganization of the entire German war production setup, the DNB propaganda agency reported in a dispatch heard by Reuter's.

The shakeup will result in vastly increased powers for Munitions Minister Albert Speer, the agency added.

THERE IS ONLY ONE ISSUE IN THE PRIMARY ELECTION FOR THE CITY TREASURER

In the present campaign for the Republican nomination for City Treasurer, there has been a pleasing lack of personalities and petty politics. The three men striving for the nomination have conducted themselves as gentlemen and have sought votes for themselves without attempting to "smear" the opponents.

That is the American way, the sportsmanlike way to conduct an election. As friends of B. N. "Bernie" Hanlon we are interested in good government more than in partisan politics.

We believe there is but one issue in this campaign and that issue is "Ability." The man to serve you as City Treasurer should be one who is qualified by training and experience to handle accounts. These qualifications Mr. Hanlon has, and in his years of experience as an accountant has demonstrated his fitness to hold the office he seeks.

As friends of "Bernie" Hanlon, as citizens who believe in ability in public office, we commend his candidacy to the voters on September 14th.

Hillsville Soldier Twice Prisoner In Africa Battles

Also Wounded In Action; Freed From Germans By Allied Victory

Taken prisoner twice in the North African campaign, and forced on the second occasion to walk 25 miles on a foot shattered by shrapnel, Pvt. Nick Marzano, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Marzano, of Hillsville, has had enough experience in the current war to last him. Nick has just returned to the U. S. Army hospital at Brentwood, L. I., where he is undergoing treatment for his wound, after having spent a 12-day furlough at his home.

Nick was all through the thick of the fighting in North Africa, from the moment he landed with the hard-bitten 26th Infantry of the First Division, which bore the brunt of the attack against the French and Germans, until two days before Bizerte and Tunis fell.

Immediately after landing on the North African shores, he was taken captive by the French army, but the quick collapse of the French resistance, saw him back with his comrades after being in a French prison camp for four days.

From there he went on through the tough days of the Tunisian campaign, only to be wounded on May 6, in the closing days of the drive on Bizerte and Tunis. The Germans were retreating rapidly in those days, and after receiving his wound, a piece of shrapnel going through his foot, Nick was forced to march 25 miles with only crude first aid treatment. However, on arriving at a hospital behind the German lines, he was given the best of treatment, he reports, and was hospitalized. On May 8, two days after he had been wounded, the Yanks were in possession of Tunis and Bizerte, and the hospital in which he was undergoing treatment, fell into the hands of his comrades on May 11.

As soon as he could be moved, he was brought back to the United States, and placed in an army hospital at Brentwood, where he is still receiving t reatment. Nick walks with a slight limp, his wound having not entirely healed as yet, but he hopes to be as good as ever when army surgeons are finished with him.

Whether he will get back into the fighting or not, he does not know.

Nick has three other brothers in the service, and his parents and sisters are proud of the family's record. Sgt. Vito Marzano is now in England, while Corp. Sam Marzano and Pvt. Joe Marzano are in training in camps on this side.

CONVICTS SEEK TO SET LIFE-TERMER FREE IN OLD CASE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—District Attorney Edward Bauer of Westmoreland County and Sergeant John A. Tomek of the state police, today took statements from two life term prisoners in Western Penitentiary by which the convicts hope to free a third man, also serving life for murder.

Russell Wentz and John Greenwald related the details of the holdup of a barbecue stand in 1931 in which the proprietor, Francis McGreevy, of Westmoreland, was shot to death by Wentz.

The man they hope to set free is Paul Boggs, who was arrested and tried with Wentz and Greenwald. In the statements made to Bauer and Tomek it was reported the convicts named Robert F. Brunner, one-time Versailles township constable, as the third man who accompanied them on the murder trip. They completely exonerated Boggs.

Retail, Restaurant Price Regulations Named For District

Local Eating Places Are Asked To Post Ceiling Statements

OPA ceiling prices for retailers in the nine-county district which includes Lawrence County, have been received by the district price panel, it was announced today by Mrs. G. E. Koonce, price ceiling clerk of the OPA.

Lists of these prices will be mailed to local retailers, but if they are not received, it is requested that they call the price panel office in the Aiken school on Pearson street.

Complaints have been received about overcharging in restaurants, Mrs. Koonce added, and steps are being taken to correct this. All restaurants must post the following on their menus: "All prices are our ceiling prices, or below. By OPA regulation, our ceilings are based on our highest prices from April 4 to April 10, 1943. Our menus or price lists for that week are available for your inspection."

Restaurants which do not use menus must post the above statement in a place where it can be easily read by customers. Prices of food items and meals currently offered are to be displayed in a conspicuous place.

Eating places not in operation during the seven-day period, April 4-10, 1943, shall substitute the following statement: 'All prices are our ceiling prices or below. By OPA regulation, our ceilings as a new proprietor are in line with competitive prices from April 4 to 10, 1943. Our menus or price lists for our first week of operation are available for your inspection."

Israel Marches Toward Canaan

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Moses.

"Come thou with us, and we will do thee good."—Numbers 10:29.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Sept. 12 is numbers 10:11-12:16, the Golden Text being Numbers 10:29, "Come with us, and we will do thee good.")

In this lesson the Israelites have been encamped in the wilderness of Sinai for about 11 months and 19 days. On the 20th day of the second year of their wanderings, they took up their journey toward the land of Canaan. The cloud of the Lord was with them and halted in the wilderness of Paran. Look on the map and see where this wilderness was.

Tribe by tribe the people went on their way, led by the tribe of Judah, the tribe from which David and the kings and from which the Lord Jesus Christ came. Each tribe had its leader, and the Ark of the Tabernacle went with them.

Moses approached Hobab, the Midianite, who had accompanied the Israelites. You remember Moses' wife came from that tribe. He asked Hobab to go with them and show them the way to Canaan, because that rough and difficult country was well known to Hobab.

Hobab said, "I will not go; but I will depart to mine own land, and to my kindred."

"Come with us, and we will do thee good," Moses told him. And further, "Leave us not, I pray thee; forasmuch as thou knowest how we are to encamp in the wilderness, and thou mayest be to us instead of eyes."

Hobab Goes With Them

Hobab decided then to go with them, and he was rewarded in Canaan, although the Midianites never were counted among the tribes of Israel. They had God to lead them, it is true, but God also likes folks to help themselves, and a trusted guide was a great help in the years of wandering in strange lands.

As usual with people when they leave their accustomed homes, the Israelites forgot all the hardships they had suffered in Egypt, and began complaining again. The Lord was very tired of their discontent and sent a fire to burn many of them. Moses interceded for them and the fire stopped, and Moses named the place Taberah.

Next the Israelites began to complain of the manna which was the food the Lord had provided for them. They remembered the fish, cucumbers and melons of their days in Egypt, forgetting with what suffering they were accompanied. Even Moses, patient man that he was, was displeased with them then. In his turn he complained to the Lord that he had been carrying the burden of this dissatisfied and trying people on his own shoulders and he asked that he be given help or be allowed to perish.

The Lord told him to gather 70 of the leaders and He would give them the divine spirit so they could share Moses' burdens. Joshua, one of Moses' helpers, complained that two young men also seemed to have been given the divine spirit and were prophesying about the camp. Moses chided him and asked if he was envious of these two? "Would God that all the Lord's people were prophets, and that the Lord would put His spirit upon them!" Moses exclaimed.

Promises Meat

The Lord promised that the Israelites would soon eat flesh as they so much desired. They would have so much it would become loathsome to them. A great wind then arose and brought quails from the sea, so many that in some places they were piled two feet high around the camp. The people rushed out and gathered all day, all night and the next day. They evidently began to eat greedily, too, of the flesh, for "while the flesh was yet between their teeth, ere it was chewed, the wrath of the Lord was kindled against the people, and the Lord smote the people with a very great plague' Many perished and were buried at this place, which was called Kibrothhattaavah in memory of these burials.

Now, of all people, Miriam and Aaron, Moses' sister and brother, began to speak against Moses. They used as an excuse that he had married an Ethiopian woman, but really it was jealousy because Moses was so favored by the Lord and chosen leader over them. "Hath the Lord indeed spoken only by Moses? Hath He not spoken also by us?" they argued. The Lord heard what they said, and as Moses was the meekest of men, the Lord spake suddenly to all three and told them to come to the tabernacle. There He told them that Moses indeed was His chosen servant, and He would speak with him "mouth to mouth." He was very angry at Miriam and Aaron, and when the cloud from which He was speaking lifted, lo Miriam was white from head to toe with leprosy.

Was Moses pleased? No, indeed. He cried, "Heal her now, O God. I beseech Thee!"

For seven days Miriam was shut from the camp, but at the end of that time she was received in again, healed.

SERVICE MEN WILL PARADE

Men Home On Furlough Asked To Aid War Bond Parade On Friday

This article is strictly G. I. It is for service men only, that is service men home on furlough or leave. It is not for civilians. And now that the civilian readers have turned to another page we'll get down to cases and we don't mean cases of Scotch.

On Friday night, September 10, the formal opening of the Third War Bond campaign will be opened in New Castle with a military parade and a short program at the Taggart Stadium. A military parade calls for soldiers, sailors and marines, everything from a buck private or a boot to a brass hat.

The grand marshal of the parade, C. M. England, wants as many of the local men who are home on furlough, as will, to join the parade. Eighty naval cadets from Westminster College will be in line, and a number of local men home on furlough or leave have said they would be in line.

Here's the how of it. Report at the Legion Home on North Jefferson street at 6:45 Friday night and fall in. No matter your rank or how long you have been in service, you are asked to join up with this parade as a means of engendering interest in the bond campaign which in turn will result in dough for the government which in turn means buns and bombs and beans for the men in service.

The parade will move from the Legion Home to the Taggart Stadium in time for the kick-off for the New Castle-Grove City football game. Between halves Captain Richard Wheeler of the Deshon General hospital will speak as well Judge W. Walter Braham. Captain Wheeler is back from North Africa convalescing from wounds received in pushing the Axis around.

All United for Victory!

EVERY time you hear a locomotive whistle, let it remind you that your railroads are accomplishing the world's largest moving job.

In a single year, Erie and other American Railroads have moved 100 million tons of Army freight and transported 20 million soldiers, sailors and marines.

Add to this, the millions of tons of freight for the Navy, shipyards and war plants, plus coal, fuel oil and essential civilian goods, and the total becomes staggering—more than a billion and a quarter tons.

This miracle of transportation is being accomplished by teamwork, pooling railroad equipment and resources, and constant exchange of information and facilities. Thus the total power of all railroads is made available to the nation. That is why you see Erie trains hauling cars owned by railroads from all parts of the country—reefers from the Pacific, tankers from the Gulf, flats from the middle-west, coal and box cars from the east.

America's railroads have formed one great pool of equipment, on one long track serving the nation. America is getting the most from its railroads because all are united for victory!

This spirit of cooperation not only provides a great transportation system for use in war but assures America that it will continue to have the world's best and most economical transportation when victory comes.

FARMS AND FARMERS OF LAWRENCE COUNTY

By Lewis C. Dayton, County Agent

HOUSING OF PULLETS MAY BE NIGHT WORK

On many Lawrence county poultry farms pullets are moved off the range into the laying house at night. This practice is followed because other farm jobs more pressing at the time can be done only in the daytime.

While pullets are more easily handled with less fright at night, there is difficulty in selecting the birds according to maturity. Also, once caught, especially if they have been roosting in trees, it is less likely that the fowls will be released since it will mean climbing trees a second time. These disadvantages are not present when pullets are selected for housing in the daytime.

To do an efficient job, an ample supply of crates is necessary. Pullets are locked in the shelters at night and selection takes place the next morning. If allowed to remain in the shlters too long the next morning, the pullets are likely to fret and they may start picking.

A catching crate is placed against the chick exit door or main door, and the pullets are allowed to enter or are driven into this crate from which they are selected for housing. Homemade crates may be made like a long chute, or turkey crates with removable ends may be placed end to end to form a chute.

Since it is quite a job to catch pullets out of trees, this job can be and often is delayed until the bulk of the pullets have started to lay. Then the very immature ones are sold for meat. Another method used by poultrymen conists of feeding the pullets the evening scratch grain close to the roosting house and placing feeders of grain indoors about a week before housing begins.

With this method, the evening before the pullets are to be selected for housing many can be driven into the roosting quarters before they can go to the trees after grain feeding time. A bit of extra help at this time, each person holding a light pole about 10 feet long, will go far toward driving a greater number of pullets into the shelters.

Grain feeding under this method is delayed as long as possible before dusk. It takes patience to do this job well, but it is less likely to frighten or injure pullets and is easier than climbing trees.

MATERNITY STALL AID TO DAIRY HERD HEALTH

Health in the dairy herd is essential to success. This fact has long been recognized by Lawrence county dairymen, and as a result in their cooperation in the state and federal cattle disease control programs has reached a point that Lawrence county is now listed as a modified accredited area for both tuberculosis and Bang's disease. However, these programs and programs for the control of other diseases cannot attain the greatest efficiency without careful management and sanitation on the individual farm.

One of the first essentials in cleaning up a disease or in maintaining herd health is a maternity pen. Isolation quarters on a farm are just as important as they are in a hospital where certain communicable diseases in humans are controlled.

The maternity or isolation stall should be entirely separate and away from the herd if possible. It is a part of management in handling cows. Any cow that is suspected of becoming sick should be isolated. All cows placed in the maternity pen before calving are kept there until visible signs of discharge have disappeared. This is particularly true in the control and eradication of Bang's disease. In fact, any cow suspected of going to abort should be isolated at once.

It is important to keep the maternity stall clean and well disinfected. Also, a pan of disinfectant should be placed at the door for disinfecting shoes and boots. This is a part of the precautions taken to prevent carrying of infection back to the main herd, a very important part of control.

MARKET TURKEYS EARLY FOR ARMY THANKSGIVING

Lawrence county turkey producers are being urged to speed up the finishing and marketing of some of their birds to help the army quartermaster corps meet its August and September requirement of 10 million pounds of turkey to be shipped overseas. The turkeys will be used in Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners to be served American men at every base or fighting front abroad.

Helping to fulfill this request should be the first order of business for turkey producers, say government officials. Making it possible for our fighting men to have a typical holiday dinner of turkey and all the "fixin's" is one small way of telling them that the folks at home appreciate their sacrifices and are backing them to the limit.

The army request can be met if civilians do not buy early turkeys and producers finish off a small portion of the 1943 turkey crop ahead of the usual schedule.

GREASE FARM MACHINERY BEFORE STORAGE

The most important grease job on any farm machinery is the one given it as it goes into storage. Wearing surfaces are bright at the end of the season and if they are not protected by a film of oil or grease, will rust during the winter months. A thorough lubrication of all bearings and wearing surfaces will do much to prolong the life of every machine and will make it much easier to operate the machine next year. It is especially important that the needle and knotter bills on binders be covered with a covering of grease.

Before every machine goes into storage, it should be checked thoroughly to see whether or not repair parts will be needed. Repairs must be ordered early so that they will be on hand when they are needed.

RYEGRASS ADDS FERTILITY TO GARDEN SOILS

Vegetable gardeners can maintain and build up their soils by seeding ryegrass at this time of year.

Domestic ryegrass can be scattered over the garden at the rate of two pounds per hundred square feet just before the last cultivation of garden crops, or can be scattered directly over tomato plants, squash vines, or similar crops which cannot be cultivated. The ryegrass makes considerable root growth during the fall and will provide a sod to be turned under next spring.

CABBAGE COOKED IN MILK IS HIGH IN FOOD VALUE

Cabbage is a favorite vegetable with many families, but it's likely to appear time after time as just plain boiled cabbage.

To avoid monotony and keep up the family's interest in this versatile vegetable, prepare it in a variety of ways, suggests Miss Josephene Simpson, home economics extension representative, Lawrence county.

When you cook cabbage, cook it quickly in an uncovered kettle. This leaves the cabbage crisp and there's no disagreeable odor to penetrate the house. Five-minute cabbage is tops in food value because it's cooked in milk. To each 4 cups of shredded cabbage, add 2 cups of milk. Cook until tender, four to five minutes, season with salt, pepper and butter. Serve the milk with the cabbage.

Cabbage also is an excellent meat stretcher. Cook shredded cabbage in lightly salted boiling water until tender. Prepare 2 cups of white sauce and add to it a half cup of grated cheese. Stir until cheese is melted. Put the cooked cabbage in a greased casserole, pour the cheese sauce over it, sprinkle with buttered bread or cracker crumbs, and bake until the cabbage is heated through and the crumbs are brown. For more color and flavor, substitute cooked carrots for half the cabbage.

To get the highest food value from cabbage, serve it raw, reminds Miss Simpson. Instead of the traditional slaw, you might make what is known as "Yankee Slaw." To do this, beat 2 eggs until light, add ¼ cup water, 2 tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ cup vinegar, and 2 tablespoons butter. Cook until the mixture thickens. Pour this hot dressing over shredded cabbage and serve at once. For a different flavor, 1 cup chopped celery, 1 cup shredded carrots, or 1 cup thinly sliced apple may be added to the shredded cabbage.

PRESS AS YOU GO MAKES SEWING AT HOME EASY

Are you one of those persons who has been disappointed because a dress or suit you made didn't turn out the way you expected? Probably you thought the material entirely at fault, or the pattern, or the way you sewed.

Because of the great variety in fabrics, in weave, in finish, and in composition, no general rule can be made for handling them, reports Miss Josephene Simpson, home economics extension representative, of Lawrence county. For persons inexperienced in sewing, loose stretchy material is difficult to handle and pulls out of shape easily. A pattern usually carries suggestions for materials suitable for the type of design and it would save trouble if these are observed.

It is a mistake to make up woolen which has not been preshrunk, according to extension clothing specialists of the Pennsylvania State college. If the material is not preshrunk when you buy it, you can do it at home. Dip a sheet in water and wring it out as dry as possible. Spread it out flat, lay the fabric smoothly on it leaving the center fold in the material. Fold or roll the material up loosely in the sheet and let stand several hours or overnight. Unroll and press on the wrong side, lay a dry cotton cloth over the wool and pass the iron lightly over it. Do not press down as in ironing. Stop pressing while there is some steam coming up from the cloth, then hang the material smoothly and allow to dry thoroughly before cutting.

A common mistake in making a garment, particularly a woolen one, is to put off pressing until the sewing is finished. Press as you go, advises Miss Simpson, to give the work a professional look and make it easier to handle. One final pressing can never take the place of pressing at each step. Never iron wool and stop pressing while the material is still steaming.

For further information on pressing woolens, consult Miss Simpson, in the Agricultural Extension office, 206 Post Office building, New Castle.

FINGERS SMASHED

George Ellgas, 27, of 70 Bluff street, a welder for the Norwalk Trucking Co., was treated at the Jameson Memorial hospital Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock for two smashed fingers. Ellgass is reported to have been injured while at work when a heavy object fell on his hand, mashing the two fingers. His condition was reported to be fairly good.

Decision Opens Way For Salary Raise For Substitute School Teachers

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 9.—Approximately 6000 substitute school teachers were in line today for cost-of-living salary increases as a result of a favorable ruling by the Department of Justice.

The opinion written by Deputy Attorney General Harrington Adams, replaced one issued several weeks ago denying the increases to substitutes on the ground that the $24,300,000 appropriated by the 1943 legislature could be shared only by "regular members of a teaching or supervisory staff." The ruling was recalled, however, by Attorney General James H. Duff for "clarification."

Although the new ruling now includes substitutes within the provisions of the Cordier-Hare act, it still excludes teachers earning less than $1000 a year, the minimum salary included in the act's wage-scale.

The opinion pointed out that such teachers are employed under "sub-standard certificates" and can bring themselves within the act if they qualify for regular teachers' certificates.

Fill Vacancies In Mercer Schools

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Sept. 9 — Mercer schools opened yesterday with a last minute election filling the only vacancy, but two of the new teachers will be unable to start for several weeks.

Mrs. Richard McCullough, London, is the newest member of the teaching staff. She will assume the duties of commercial instructor. She last taught commercial subjects in the Worthington schools after graduating from Grove City college.

Mrs. Joe P. Laughry, who was elected to the home economics position, will begin her work as soon as her six-day release from the Cochranton schools is up. Royden McMinn, elected to the vocational agriculture department, started his first year here under a handicap. He was released Monday from the hospital, following an appendectomy.

The pupils this year will have an hour for lunch, instead of the usual half-hour, extending the closing period from 3:30 to 4 p. m.

As the schools part in preparation for war training, teachers will continue last year's courses in special mathametics, physics, and electricity.

DUSTBIN—is U. S. war slang designating the enemy rear gunner's lower position in a plane. Designate your position in the war effort by buying more War Bonds. Make it an extra $100 Bond in the Third War Loan.

MAGAZINE COVER DISPLAY

"Women At War" is the theme of a display of magazine covers, nearly all of them for the current month, that has been arranged in the case in the reception hall of the public library.

These are particularly interesting in view of the government's efforts to stress increasingly the importance of women's part in the war effort.

Path Of True Love Needs A Few Bumps, Professor Asserts

Quarrels Intensify Courtship, If Absences Are Short

(Special To The News)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 9.—The path of true love never should run smooth, Dr. M. E. John, associate professor of rural sociology at the Pennsylvania State College, believes.

A temporary blocking or frustration of impulses is essential during courtship if any intensity is to develop in the affair, he said.

So when you and your sweetheart quarrel, don't feel too badly about it. Just remember that absence makes the heart grow fonder, and that you'll probably get together again before long.

But it is also true that out of sight is out of mind, if the absence is too long, Dr. John pointed out. So watch your step, and don't let him wander too far or too long..

Bunkers on the course of love are:

1. Too strong attachment to parents.
2. Attraction based on social strata or wealth rather than on personal preference.
3. An environment of commercial recreation which kills the deeper feelings of courtship.
4. Matchmakers, who often do more harm than good.
5. The greater seriousness of girls —which often scares the boys.

POSED AS WAR HERO TO SELL WAR BONDS

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—It was an overdeveloped zeal to aid in the sale of war bonds which caused Sidney H. Loveall, the curbstone commando, to pose as a hero of the raid on Dieppe.

Or at least so he told newsmen Wednesday after being held for court by the U. S. commissioner on charges of altering his honorable discharge papers from the army and wearing medals he was not entitled to have.

"If I di danything contrary to law, I did it innocently," Loveall declared. It was done in my zeal to help sell war bonds. I believe that when the public hears the whole story I will be vindicated."

Loveall said he participated in 200 war bond rallies. But, FBI agents pointed out, he was never near a battlefield.

OCD NOTES

Activities Of OCD Workers Are Outlined Here

At their regular meeting last night, the Park Avenue Auxiliary Firemen made plans to hold a bomb demonstration, to be held on September 14, at 8 o'clock, the place to be announced later. The meeting night was also changed to every second and fourth Thursday of the month. Chief air raid wardens and auxiliary firemen are asked to attend special meeting Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the fire station.

Frank Sargeant, co-ordinator for the city OCD today reported that wardens and auxiliary police, in some sections of the city, failed to compel some people to take proper shelter during the air raid drill. He also asserted that some members of the city division lacked proper credentials when they were needed. The city OCD also received reports that the signal was too loud in some sections and not heard properly in others. The office is seeking a siren for a new siren to conquet several blank spots.

Body Of Drowned Girl Is Located At Conneaut Lake

GROVE CITY, Pa., Sept. 9 — After a continuous search of 16 days, the body of Lillian Cokeane, 19, of this place was recovered today from Conneaut Lake where she was drowned August 23.

Miss Cokeane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Cokeane, had gone to the lake with two companions, Betty Schultz and Betty Palmer, for a week's vacation. They had been there just one day when the accident occurred which resulted in the drowning.

The three girls had started out in a rowboat to cross the lake when a sudden storm came up and they were unable to control the boat which overturned in the waves. The other girls were rescued by a man in a motor boat but Lillian, who was known to be an excellent swimmer, went down.

P. T. A. Endorses Girl Scouting Here

Girl Scout Recognized By P. T. A. As Important In Young Girl's Life

The need for extending youth services in wartime has been wholeheartedly endorsed by the past president of the national Congress of Parents and Teachers. Mrs. William Kletzer, of Portland, Ore., who held the post of president of the national PTA organization, stated the problem and gave her endorsement to the work of the Girl Scout organization in the following statement:

"There has never been a time when the work of youth organizations ,especially those dealing with the teen-age girl, can mean so much or can make such a significant contribution to the life of our communities. There is a great need for extension of the services of such organizations as the Girl Scouts.

"The Parent-Teacher organization is eager to assist in helping to make this program available to more and more girls. Our organization has always felt its obligation to seek out youth leaders for these youth groups, and has given, and will continue to give, its approval and support to the Scout program.

"There are serious problems involving youth as a result of our war effort. The girl under 16 seems to be particularly affected by the lack of supervision and the emotional upsets which prevail. It is necessary that all of the resources of the community be brought together to cope with this trend. None are more important in this correlation than youth organizations such as the Girl Scouts."

Commenting upon Mrs. Kletzer's endorsement of Girl Scouting, Mrs. Plummer D. Gibson, county president of the P. T. A., said:

"That desiring to co-operate with the state and national federation and recognizing that scouting is a vital part of a girl's life, the Lawrence County Council wishes to pledge its support to this movement."

James Disavows Any Political Ambitions Now

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 9.—Former Gov. Arthur H James on Wednesday disavowed any political ambitions during a brief visit to the state capitol.

The former chief executive, often spoken of as a possible candidate for United States senator, was asked whether he had any "political aims or aspirations for the future."

"Today I'm not thinking about politics; I'm going fishing next week," he said.

James, now a practicing attorney in Plymouth, viewed a portrait of himself hung yesterday in the gallery of governors in the executive office. The painting was done by Michael Cortiglia of Wilkes-Barre, with a $750 appropriation voted by the legislature.

The former governor posed atop a 12-foot ladder beside the picture for photographers, remarking: "They'll be able to recognize that as the red-headed breaker boy; that's all that's necessary."

James, who preceded Gov. Edward Martin as chief executive, greeted office workers and a number of state officials. "It's good to come back to a place where you've been so busy," he commented, and then added quickly: "But for a short while." He was accompanied by Mrs. James and Mrs. Frank A. Sinon, the former Miss Dorothy James.

WORKED 50 YEARS IN MINE; AGAIN ON JOB

(Special To The News)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 9.—Fifty years in the coal mines wasn't enough for one Pennsylvania miner —and he has gone to work again for Uncle Sam.

Although now in his middle sixties and retired from the mines, Arch Robertson of Rennerdale near Pittsburgh is back at work in full stride.

After taking an ordnance inspection course through the extension services of the Pennsylvania State College, he began a job as inspector of armor plate in a Carnegie war plant.

"Listening to pleas for men over the radio made me feel pretty useless," Mr. Robertson explained. "I decided that if there was one place I could serve, it would be in inspection of steel, for I had plenty of experience in its use."

Hell, for a man with touchy nerves, is 2 a. m. in a rural community where a neighbor's cow has the bawls.

State Conducting Survey Of Wartime Trucking Changes

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 9.—The Highway Planning Division of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways is conducting a survey to determine war-time changes in truck traffic volume and weights Secretary John U. Shroyer announced today.

"This survey is being made in order to determine the logical priorities of improvement of the specific projects on the highway system, and also to form the basis for the designing of each project to meet anticipated traffic requirements," Shroyer said.

In explaining the method of procedure, Mr. Shroyer said the survey involves an eight-hour check of the traffic at each of the fourteen stations located at various points throughout the state, and is being made by two field parties, each consisting of a chief of party, recorder, three men from the local maintenance organization, and two state policemen. The state police assist in the loadometer operation and in directing the traffic at each station. At these stations trucks are weighed by means of portable loadometers which are placed under the truck wheels on one side only. In addition to weighing the trucks, a traffic count is taken covering all types of vehicles passing each station.

Musial's Homers Spill Pirates, 5-1; Dodgers-Phils Cop

Donora Star Blasts Two To Defeat Sewell; Wyatt Hurls One- Hitter

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—It looks as though Stan Musial is a cinch to windup as the most valuable player of the year in the National league.

He is going to finish with the highest batting average—a figure probably above .350—and he is going to be among the home run leaders while helping to spark the St. Louis Cardinals to another pennant.

He hit his 15th and 12th homers yesterday to give the Cards an easy 5 to 1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates and their peerless Truett Sewell.

Cards Up Margin

The Cardinal win increased the leaders' margin to 15 games over the second place idle Cincinnati Reds and helped to make an ultimate Cardinal victory that much nearer to a reality. Only the National league first division now has even a mathematical chance of stopping the Cards—and it would take a miracle along with nearly unbelievable baseball to bring such an accident about.

The shining light of the Card surge is and has been Musial, taking over in a war year to fill the gaps left by departed players.

The Brooklyn Dodgers scored their 14th win in their last 17 starts, beating the Boston Braves, 3 to 0, but the Dodgers started their drive too late and the win meant nothing beyond another shining star in the crown of John Whitlow Wyatt.

He held the Braves to one hit, gave up only one base on balls and allowed neither runner to advance beyond first base as he chalked up his third shutout of the season and his seventh victory in a row.

Phillies Win, 3-2

The Philadelphia Phillies won the only other game of the day, beating the New York Giants, 3 to 2, on Babe Dahlgren's seventh inning home run. Buddy Kerr had made a homer for the Giants in his first appearance at bat in the major league and Ernie Lombardi had added another to keep the cellar-dwelling Giants in the game until Dahlgren iced it away for the Phils.

Ace Adams made his 62nd appearance of the season on the mound for the Giants as a relief hurler and with that established a new major league record.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—Temple's 1943 football schedule was a step nearer completion today following the announcement that the Owls will engage Ursinus in a night contest at Temple stadium Friday, October 15.

The date originally was filled by the Syracuse-Temple clash, but an open date resulted when the Orangemen dropped football for the duration. In the only other game between the two schools, Temple trimmed the Bears, 12-0, in 1926.

DISCLOSED as one of the stockholders of the Philadelphia Phillies ($5,000 worth), George D. Widener, wealthy turf figure and president of Belmont Park, N. Y., race track, is thrust into the sports headlines because of a reported investigation by Commissioner K. M. Landis of baseball. Landis always has frowned on anyone attempting to mix baseball with racing. Widener, who has only seen two baseball games in his entire life, says that "I have absolutely no intention of giving up my Philadelphia stock." Widener is shown. (International)

WOOD-NELSON GRUDGE MATCH FOR WAR FUND

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Golf fans were looking forward today to a challenge match between two great professional stars, Craig Wood, national open champion, and Byron Nelson, masters' king and players' No. 1 choice in American golf.

The match, which originated in a challenge throw out by Wood at the Golden Valley tournament in Minneapolis, probably will be played within the next three weeks in Toledo, O., Nelson's home course, over a 72-hole route for the benefit of a war relief agency.

News of the special encounter between the two stars came as they returned to Chicago from Minneapolis where Wood and Jim Demaret won the Golden Valley four-ball title and Nelson and Harold McSpaden took second.

The last meeting of the two pros was in the 1939 National Open playoff in Philadelphia where Nelson beat Wood by three strokes.

Nelson was voted the No. 1 man in American golf by the 16 standout golfers who participated in the Golden Valley tournament.

UEF Defeats JB, 2-0, In Softball Series Inaugural

Liposky's Pitching In Tight Spots Feature; Close To 1,000 Fans See Fast Tilt

Superb pitching in tight spots played a major role in the United Engineering's 2-0 triumph over the Johnson Bronze, Wednesday night at Gaston Park.

With a gallery of close to 1,000 persons gathered 'round, the rivals opened their industrial softball championship series by unfurling one of the classiest exhibitions witnessed here in many years.

Liposky Stars

Francis Liposky, Ellport pitching artist, served 'em for the UEF and was touched for a pair of hits. He jammed himself with five walks but tossed out his Sunday brand of ball to extricate himself.

Bob Pascarella, losing moundsman, twirled impressively. While he dished out a half dozen blows, most of them were either bunts or the infield variety. Three errors hampered the JB cause.

The UEF marked up a score in the fourth and fifth. The JB contingent knocked at the scoring door several times, loading the bases twice. Both rallies were short-lived. In the seventh the JB managed to get the tieing runs on the hassocks but the needed punch was missing.

Bullano Doubles

Sammy Bullano led the UEF hitting parade with two hits, including a double. Ted Turco and F. Copple garnered the losers' two hits.

UEF fielded beautifully throughout, especially when the JB threatened.

The second game will be played Monday evening at 6 o'clock at Gaston Park.

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, Sept. 9.—The 1943 meeting at the Garden State race track will close Saturday with an eight-race program featuring the $10,000 added Vineland handicap.

Six definite entries will go to the post in the mile and a 16th turf classic. They are Anthemion, Bonnet Ann, Dark Discovery, Barbara Childs, Spiral Pass and Challomine.

COACH CHAMPION

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Bill Barclay assistant basketball and football coach at the University of Michigan who pilots the Wolverine golf course this season was state amateur golf champion in 1939. The same year his sister, Mrs. Donald Weiss, won the state women's championship, while his brother coached Flint Northern to the Michigan high school basketball title

FUTURE STAR

Jimmy Robertson, son of A. J. Robertson, coach at Bradley Poly, is tabbed as a future big league star.

'Canes Will Battle Grove City Eleven In Local Stadium

Sharpened by two weeks of rigorous drills, Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh's 22nd New Castle high gridiron tornado embarks on another campaign across the chalkline prairies Friday night at Taggart stadium.

Grove City high, its victory list 15 games long, will offer the opposition.

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner said today that the premier will start at about 8:30 o'clock.

The 1942 class AA WPIAL kingpins, their ranks decimated by graduation and selective service, are not as formidable as past seasons.

Losses Heavy

This can be attributed to the loss of Bob Lee, acclaimed by many as the top scholastic workman in the nation last season; Jesse Gunn, Pete Tedesko, John Zubkowsky, Dave Genkinger, Harvey Burris, Russ Currie, Henry Clark and a few lesser lights.

Despite these losses, the 'Canes, nevertheless, show promise of developing into a hard-to-handle outfit.

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh and his saff have succeeded in fashioning a big line which is as tough to budge as a five-ton truck in reverse gear.

Mike Roussos, the towering tackle, weighs 205, passes the six-foot mark and is surprisingly fast. He makes few mistakes. Tom Sanfilippo, at 190, is Roussos' sidekick, and a talented hand. Bob Preston, small but fast, has won the center post. In practice sessions Preston has displayed impressiveness throughout.

Denver Newman and Al Germani will man the wing posts. Newman's play last season glittered, and there isn't a reason why it shouldn't this season. Germani gained valuable experience during the '42 stretch. Joe Joseph and Johnny Izzo, a pair of experienced performers, fill in the guard berths.

The 'Cane wall has shone like a hot August sun throughout the drills. How the seven act under fire is another thing.

Backkfield Not Bad

In the backfield Tony Razzano, formerly a lineman, has drawn the nod for one of the half positions. As a hard runner few surpass Razzano. The athlete, slated to don khaki on the 20th, slashes through the line with incredible speed and power. Roscoe Williams, the 130-pound whirlwind assailant, has cinched the other half assignment. The colored star is a potential touchdown scorer on every play, due to his speed.

Ted Lewis, the new fullback, has been the surprise package thus far. Picked to fill the tough slot, the blond has displayed daily improvement. Big and fast, Lewis' thrusts through the line leave little to be desired.

Dick McKee, at quarterback, is a players' player. His spirit, willingness and an exceptionally shrewd head lift him to the top of the heap. His ability to call proper plays and to unfurl the unexpected is rare.

On Wednesday the defending champs got their last taste of body contact maneuvers, scrimmaging against the reserves. As during the past several days, the 'Canes showed additional finesse but still have a long way to go before acquiring that precision that falls a notch below perfection.

Tonight the gridders drill under the stadium lights. A signal drill will be the centerpiece.

SHENANGO CAMP CAGERS PRACTICE

Over 40 Candidates Seek Berths; Corp. Alan Acker Coaching Passers

(Special To The News)

GREENVILLE, Pa., Sept. 9.—More than 40 candidates are battling for berths on the post basketball squad, according to the official list of applicants revealed by Lt. J. J. Berman, post athletic officer. The soldier-cagers started practice Monday afternoon in recreation hall No. 3, building T-1975.

The post passers will be under the competent tutelage of Cpl. Alan Acker, who acquired considerable experience playing for the original House of David quintet.

Coach Acker's chief problem at the present time concerns the weeding out process. He has a potential group of prospects.

The team will be known as the Shenango Indians.

Eight Team Hockey League Possibility

CLEVELAND, Sept. 9—The American Hockey League will have seven clubs as members this winter and there is a possibility of eight, it was revealed Wednesday. Teams regarded as certain starters are Cleveland, Buffalo, Indianapolis, Pittsburgh, Providence, Washington and Hershey. St. Louis, a member of the suspended American Association Hockey League, may enter the American League, it was reported.

Lehigh has cancelled football games with Swarthmore, Case and Muhlenberg. Only Rutgers and Carnegie remain on the original list.

RANCHER BENTON REPORTS TO BEARS

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Pronounced physically fit by a Chicago specialist, Jim Benton, lanky Arkansas rancher, was scheduled to report today to start training for Sunday's football game with the Washington Redskins.

Rated next to Green Bay's Don Hutson as a pass catcher, Benton signed to play end with the Bears this season. He was obtained from the immobilized Cleveland Rams.

Ace Women Golfers In Philly Red Cross Tourney October 3

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—Three ace women golfers were slated Wednesday to compete in the $1500 Red Cross tournament at the Torresdale-Frankford country club, October 3.

Helen Sigel, former state and women's titlist; Dot Germain, Women's Western Amateur champ, and Mrs. Edwin H. Vare, Jr., who has held six national women's titles have entered the tournament.

Miss Sigel will team with Jug McSpaden, Tam O'Shanter winner, and Craige Wood, 1941 National Open champ. Miss Germain will play with Byron Nelson and Samy Byrd, while Mrs. Vare will have Sergeant Vic Ghezzi, former PGA titlist and Jimmie Demaret as partners.

KELLEHER WITH SYRACUSE

Frankie Kelleher is back in the International league. This time he is with Syracuse. He played several years with the Newark Bears.

Hirsch Jacobs is topping the race horse trainers for the 10th season in the last 11. He was second in 1940.

SPORTS RAMBLINGS

Scribbled on a napkin while sipping away at a bowl of soup:—

Whatever became of "Ruffles" Johns? The answer arrived in a War department envelope containing a press release from Quarry Heights, Canal Zone. Here's the piece concerning the former Ne-Ca-Hi gridder, nationally known gate crasher and movie bit player:—

HEADQUARTERS PANAMA CANAL DEPARTMENT—T Sgt. Ralph R. Johns, son of Samuel Johns, 13 West Reynolds street, New Castle, Penna., has been decorated with the Good Conduct Medal at an impressive ceremony held recently at a Sixth Air Force Base in the Caribbean area. The Good Conduct Medal is awarded to enlisted men who have served at least one year in the armed services since the United States entered the war and is a testimonial to their loyalty and fidelity to duty. He entered the service three years ago and for the past 33 months has been stationed in the Caribbean area. He is presently assigned to a Service Squadron in the Sixth Air Force.

Taggart stadium, its neatly trimmed grass as green as Kentucky-like; the freshly painted giant floodlights standing majestically in their places; the turnstiles, oiled for action and seats repaired and house cleaned, is spic and span for the eight grid shows . . . Alex "Chink" Dutkin, the most handsome second looey I've ever seen, is home on furlough. The ex-'Cane-Slippery Rock cagesmith, one of Uncle Sam's tough torpedo squadron members, is stationed in San Diego . . .

"Ragsy" Gennock, of the United States Coast Guards, is another local serviceman home on leave. Baltimore is his station . . . New Castle high's grid eleven, ranked among the snappiest dressed clubs, in scholastic football—that's national, by the way—will don new livery tomorrow night, to keep intact an annual custom that dates way back . . . .

Short stuff:—Charley Wensloff adheres to that maxim "don't start something you can't finish" almost religiously. In his first 22 games on the Yankees' knoll, the rookie ace completed 16 frays . . . Cy Young, who won 511 major league tilts, rates Lou Creiger, the old time Cleveland catcher, as a better backstop than "Bill" Dickey. That's just like trying to prove that Jack Dempsey would have kayoed Joe Louis in the first round . . . .

WORLD SERIES TO BE FILMED FOR U. S. FORCES

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—The 1943 world series will be filmed for America's fighting men overseas, the American league announced today.

It will mark the first time a sound film ever has been made of baseball's fall classic for servicemen.

Lew Fonseca, the league's promotional director and producer of its annual motion picture, said the plan was made possible through the enthusiastic cooperation and endorsement of the war and navy departments.

One hundred prints of the film, a two-reel, 22-minute sound version of the series, will be distributed to foreign bases all over the world and another hundred prints will be sent to army, navy, marine and coast guard bases in this country.

Shenango Grid Opener Friday; Evans City Foe

"Wildcats" Host Team; Tussle Will Star At 2:15; Shenango Prospects Fair

Their claws weakened by selective service and graduation, the Shenango high "Wildcats" open the 1943 football season on Friday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, entertaining Evans City in a class B WPIAL fracas.

Coach Eddie Nahas has been working overtime trying to find replacements for such standouts as "Chick" Adamczyk, Anthony Staph, Walter Fruit, Julian Adamczyk and Pete Moran, now members of the alumni; John Allsopp and Ed. Feil, now in the Navy, and Dave Dean, who is working in a local plant.

Prospects Fair

Prospects, however, could be worse. Varsity men back for another nitch include:

Web Gill, end; John Fulvi, guard; Bob Kalajainen, back, and Andy Kitzko, back.

"Bill" Williams, Earl Marks, Charles Stolitca and Charles Tanner are outstanding lettermen.

Among the reserves and newcomers, James Lippman, DeAntonio, Osgood, Morrone, Klish, Zeigler and Bob Miller have been making the best showings in practice.

Shenango will dash onto the gridiron determined to even last season's defeat administered by Evans City. The Butler countians reportedly have another fast B unit.

LAMBEAU JOINS PACKERS' ELEVEN

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—Curley Lambeau is in Pittsburgh today to take over the coaching reins of the Green Bay Packers in their last drills preparatory to meeting the Steelers at Forbes Field Saturday night.

Assistant Coach Red Smith, meanwhile, is giving the pro team a "thorough going over" and believes it will be in tip-top shape by the time the starting whistles blows.

Lopresti, Hockey Ace Believed Dead, Alive

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Given up for dead when he was torpedoed in the south Atlantic, Sam Lopresti, hockey star of the Chicago Black Hawks, of Eveleth, Minn., today was ready to return to action.

Floating on a raft for 42 days, Lopresti drifted all the way from off the coast of Africa to Brazil. A gunner's mate, second class, the former hockey star was gun captain of the armed guard crew aboard a merchant ship sunk last February.

Bucs To Return Twirler Jarlett

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—Pirates President W. E. Benswanger today announced that Al Jarlett, right-handed pitcher recently recalled from Toronto, will be sent back to that International league team.

The Pirate management explained it felt Jarlett would not be needed since the club had secured the services of Pitcher Arthur Coccurullo from Albany of the Eastern league.

Hits 'Em Hard

WILLARD MARSHALL, one of the rookie stars of the New York Giants in 1942 and now a member of the U. S. Marine Corps, was a prominent factor in bringing the Marine Headquarters' baseball team its first D. C. departmental league title since 1926. Marshill batted .381. He's from Richmond, Va. (International)

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Pittsburgh district football fans will get their first look at the combination Steeler-Eagles gridiron crew of 1943 Saturday night, September 11, when the Greenbay Packers are met at Forces Field in a pre-season contest played under the lights. Forced to merge because of wartim conditions, the Steeler-Eagle outfit, which has been doing all its drilling in Philadelphia, is rated as one of the best in the National Pro League this year. This opinion is handed down by the men who know their pro-football, and who look for the combined squad to cut a wide swath in the Eastern end of the flag race.

Three weeks of training under the watchful eyes of Co-Coaches Walter Kiesling and Greasy Neal have brought the team along to a fine conditioned pace and set for any kind of battle the Packers will offer Saturday. The Packers, like all other teams, have been hard hit by the war, but they still bear resemblance to a great ball club. The passing combination of Cecil Isbell and Don Hutson, is still intact, and anytime a team has a dup like this, it will be rated near the top.

Moose-Indies Resume Series Tonight At 5:45

Tussle To Be Played On Lee Avenue Field; Rivals Are Deadlocked

Stymied in their quest for the City Baseball league championship, the Lawrence Indies and Moose club tie into each other again tonight on Lee avenue field.

The third game of the series starts at 5:45 o'clock.

Thus far, the Indies have displayed superior strength, winning the opener with plenty to spare. After the firing ceased, the first half kings owned a 12-3 decision.

In the second tilt the Moose, with their pitching ace, Ralph Ferranto, in the box, squeezed out a 6-5 triumph to even the count.

Anderson to Hurl

Tonight the Moose will face the tantalizing slants of LeRoy Anderson. The blond righthander got the nod in the inaugural and repaid Manager Zidow's confidence in him by hurling a seven-hitter.

Manager Rodenbaugh is toying with the idea of sending Ferranto back on the knoll. The lefty has mystified the Indies all season, whipping them on four different occasions. With him on the throwing range the Moose may up-end the Zidowmen again.

Fans should see another fast clash stuffed with thrills.

The fourth battle is scheduled Sunday afternoon on Mahoning field.

Manpower Needs Of Armed Forces May Be Lessened

(International News Service)

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 9.—Major General Lewis B. Hershey, national director of selective service, estimated today that no more than one-third of the 6,000,000 fathers now subject to the draft could pass their physical examination.

Expressing pleasure over the surrender of Italy, he said, he hoped it "becomes an epidemic."

Needs of the armed forces for manpower may lessen, he stated.

"We probably won't have to mobilize as many men for the remainder of the war as we have in the past," General Hershey said.

GAMBLING HOUSE IN PITTSBURGH RAIDED

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—Seventy-three patrons and an alleged proprietor of a gambling establishment were under arrest today following one of the biggest raids carried out by county detectives in several months.

Led by Sergeant Michael Jorcan, the squad swooped down on the downtown emporiom late yesterday and surprised the group of bettors listening to race results over a loudspeaker.

Abe Stein, 51, was charged with operating a gambling house and was placed under $2,500 bond for a court hearing.

SABOTAGE INCREASES

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Increasing sabotage in Denmark, despite German repressive measures, was reported today in a Swedish press dispatch quoted by the London radio.

BBC later reported a Nazi-controlled Danish radio broadcast offering the equivalent of $5,000 as a reward for information leading to arrest of patriots disrupting movement of railroad traffic.

Japan Charges Betrayal Move

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—"A regrettable act of betrayal of the Japanese-German-Italian tripartite pact" was charged against Italy today by the Japanese government in a special statement released by the Japanese board of information and transmitted to the United States by the Japanese agency, Domei.

The statement echoed earlier German reaction that Japan had "anticipated such a statement," however, and had taken "all necessary measures." It would have "no effect," said the statement, "on the general war situation."

The first recorded Japanese mention of Italy's capitulation came 14 hours after the Allied announcement.

In a Tokyo domestic radio broadcast reported by U. S. Government monitors, the announcer told the Japanese people Japan "resolves to crush America and Britain to the very end" and will carry on the war, and thus put Emperor Hirohito "at ease."

LOWER ENROLLMENT

GROVE CITY, Sept. 9.—Grove City schools opened yesterday with a total enrollment of 1,463, just 85 under last year's enrollment. This is accounted for, it is thought, by the fact that a large number of high school boys have entered the service during the summer months.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

We sit back and look the situation over from comfortable chairs . . . and letters like these come through from the boys who are doing our fighting:

"STRETCH IN HELL"

I am sitting here thinking of the things I left behind,
I would hate to put in writing just what is on my mind.
We have dug a million ditches and cleared a lot of ground,
We have drunk our beer and whiskey in every honkey-tonk in town.
But there is still one consolation—gather round me while I tell,
When we die we'll go to heaven, for we've done our stretch in hell.

We build a million kitchens for the cooks to burn our beans,
We stood a million guard mounts, and we've cleaned the camp latrines.
We have slept at night with scorpions, we have peeled a million spuds,
We have killed a million snakes and ants that tried to steal our grub.
When our work on earth is over then our friends will tell,
When they died they went to heaven for they done their stretch in hell.

When the final taps are sounded and we lay aside life's cares,
And we stand that last inspection on the shining golden stairs.
The Angels will welcome us, their golden harps will play.
We'll draw a million canteen checks and spend them in a day.
It's there we'll hear St. Peter tell us loudly with a yell,
Come in boys from the desert, you've done your stretch in hell.
—signed, "DESERT RATS"

The above was sent in by Sgt. Robert Dubrock of the 88th Engineers and tells we feel what all the boys think. . . We can help them out by buying War Bonds. Seeing that the money is there to keep them going and if we can keep them going things over here will still be intact . . . Don't wait for some one to come up and ask you to buy . . . Go spend your money . . . we should say . . . invest your money in the safest investment in the world. U. S. WAR BONDS.

MARKET TRADING SHOWS INCREASE

Peace Stocks Rally At Opening Of Market After Irregular Opening

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 — Peace stocks rallied the stock market today soon after an irregular opening. Gains in these issues ranged to more than a point while the rest of the list recorded more modest advances.

Trading ran at the best pace in over a month.

Rubbers, amusements, glass and soft drink shares—all groups with good post-war prospects—had gains ranging to well over a point, with Loews, U. S. Rubber, which sold ex-dividend, Libby Owens and Pepsi-Cola the individual features.

Low-priced utilities were active and strong while International Telephone, the most active list on the big board yesterday, added a fraction to substantial gain of the previous session.

Merchandising shares and motors had fair support but gains here were slight.

Rails, Steels, and aviation manufacturing shares, weak yesterday, were steady with price changes small.

Opening Of School Drains Clerks From Stores In Detroit

Stores Dealing In Civilian Services Can Hire No One; Appeal To Mothers

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Sept. 9.—With the return of thousands of Detroit children to their studies Wednesday, store managers and personnel directors face a shortage of employes more acute than any in history.

The brutal fact is that stores dealing in civilian services just can't hire anybody.

As a desperate last hope, appeals are going out to mothers and housewives begging them to work behind counters.

The critical situation was alleviated somewhat during the summer when vacation employment was afforded 6,000 students and a large portion of the city's 7,500 teachers.

But even that emergency stop-gap was destroyed today.

"All normal civilian services are bound to suffer badly," C. E. Boyd, secretary of the Retail Merchants Association declared. "The war plants and armed forces have drained every normal supply of workers."

Ruby Cant, personnel director at Kresge's, said:

"Most of the girls are going to try to get early school hours so they can work part time. The average age of our clerks is 16. As for clerks to work in the morning—well, we wish we knew the answer."

At J. L. Hudson's, Detroit's largest department store, a similar situation is faced. Personnel heads there plan to work extra employes on broken schedules of a day or two a week.

Estimates received by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture show that on August 1 there was an expected production of 181,700 tons of tomatoes for commercial processing, compared with 162,400 tons harvested in 1942.

Construction To Be Curtailed

Volume May Be Forced Down To Near Depression Levels Next Year

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—WPB officials disclosed today that the volume of construction activity in the United States may be forced down to near depression levels in the coming year as result of the wartime scarcity of manpower and materials.

In an effort to release an estimated 600,000 building trades workers for essential war and munitions industries this year, the WPB is expected to impose another 50 per cent slash in domestic construction activity which now is running at an annual volume of about $6,000,000,000.

During the depression, before the government's huge public works program got under way, building in the United States dropped to the low level of approximately $2,500,000,000 a year.

WPB officials hope to restrict construction to around $3,000,000,000 or $3,500,000,000 a year in the near future, compared to an all-time peak of nearly $14,000,000,000 in 1942 when military and war plant construction was in full swing.

It was estimated that more than a half million workers could be freed for more essential work, if the desired limitation on construction activities can be attained.

Want Humorous Letters Written By Nazi Soldiers

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 — Reversing the usual procedure of asking German civilians to write only cheerful letters to front line troops, Nazi officials have appealed to German soldiers to make certain letters to their families are in a "humorous vein," the Swedish newspaper Arbetet revealed in a dispatch reported today to the Office of War Information.

The newspaper said military authorities had issued a guide for letter writing by soldiers, saying the 10,000,000 letters sent home by troops each month formed "nerves in the bodies of the German people."

No Flax Scutching Is Held This Year

HARRISBURG, Sept. 9.—Abandonment of the annual "flax scutching" at Stahlstown in Westmoreland county this year has been announced by the committee. For nearly 40 years this traditional event has attracted large numbers of persons the State Department of Commerce says.

Scutching flax was a pioneer custom when settlers in a given community gathered to prepare flax by separating the woody fiber of the plant and preparing it for weaving into linen. Its revival at Stahlstown more than two decades ago brought a return to pioneer customs and the event was an attraction for folklorists and handicrafters.

Residents of Westmoreland county say the annual flax scutching there is the only event of its kind in the country. Difficulties in transportation forced abandonment of the project this year, committee members say.

We at last have vast quantities of synthetic rubber, but Alas! somebody forgot that factories are needed to make the rubber into tires.

MATURE SMILES OVER JILTING

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9 — Coast Guardsman Victor Mature, late of the films, and Rita Hayworth's heart, today took his jilting on his beautiful hunk of chin and smiled a classic smile.

Arriving in Pittsburgh on a bond-selling tour, Mature, a boatswain's mate, admitted ruefully he had "an understanding" with Miss Hayworth up until the moment the titian-haired movie queen married awesome Orson Welles, the mighty man from Mars.

"When the mail comes," Mature said, "all the coast guardsmen line up to get their letters. They always kid each other by saying, 'I wonder whose kissing her now'. Well, at least I'm not wondering."
